Goering Gets New Medal for His Chest!

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Reichsmarshal Goering, who already possesses most of the medals which can be conferred upon him by Germany and her European Axis puppets, made a place for a new one today on his 50th birthday. Hungary has awarded him the Grand Cross of the Order of Merit for his birthday.

Alfred Rosenberg, Reichminister for the German-occupied districts in the east, also marked his 50th birthday today. The German press described Goering as Germany's sword and Rosenberg as Germany's sword.

REDS 20 MILES NEARER ROSTOV

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 12 (AP)—A 20-mile advance into Kuberle, southwest Rostov, to narrow the circle closing in on the Nazis' key stronghold in southern Russia was announced by Soviet authorities today to match the widening of the Caucasus front which encompassed the key cities of Georgievsk, Mineralnye Vodi and Pyatigorsk and the cities of Budenkovsk and Karamik, Kislovodsk, far on their flanks.

The shattering Caucasus advance which had carried Soviet armies 80 miles from recaptured Mozdok in nine days also put the Russian armies in that area in position to sweep to the headwaters of the Kuban river, to aim at recapture of the oil fields of Maikop, at the rail centers of Voroshilovsk and Armavir, and finally at the German strongpoints of Krasnodar and Kropotkin.

New successes were claimed in the lower Don valley, but there was no identification of the populated places reported captured. The Red Army thrust in this area previously was placed at about 60 miles from Rostov.

The dashing Russian cavalry led the first onslaughts against the Germans at the opening of the Caucasus drive which scored a 15-mile advance in a night's fighting, killing 400 Germans and capturing more than 200.

Capture of the health resort of Mineralnye Vodi found two trainloads of German troops, with their munitions, waiting in the city to move toward the front, the communists said. Soviet tanks and armored cars then swarmed into the city, killing the troops and capturing the train.

The push that took Kuberle was down the Stalingrad-Tikhovsk railway from Zimovniki. The capture of a series of towns north from Kuberle for 21 miles and a flanking drive to Vesioy, about 30 miles south of Zimovniki, has straightened the front in that sector.

The Caucasus drive has put Red army columns into Budenkovsk, about 100 miles northeast of Georgievsk, at the end of a spur rail line, and at Kislovodsk, 42 miles southwest of Georgievsk.

RUSSIA—The Russian drive on Rostov from the southeast captures Georgievsk and two other important cities as Nazis retreat to escape being cut off by Red forces striking along the lower Don.

Hornet, 10 Ships Lost in Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—With military security no longer requiring secrecy, the Navy publicly added to its list of sunken vessels today the names of the aircraft carrier Hornet and 10 other warships—all previously announced as lost but not identified at the time.

The 20,000-ton Hornet, commissioned only a year before its death on Oct. 26, went to the bottom of the South Pacific off the Santa Cruz islands after a battle that inflicted heavy damage on two Japanese carriers and bomb and torpedo hits on an enemy battleship and five cruisers.

The other United States warships, sunk in the furious November battles that broke the heaviest Japanese attempts to recapture Guadalcanal, were identified as the 9,500-ton cruiser Northampton; 6,000-ton cruiser Juneau; 6,000-ton cruiser Atlanta; and the destroyers, Monssen, Cushing, Benham, Preston, Walke, Barton, and Laffey.

The Navy communicates on the engagements in which these vessels and other previously identified destroyers were lost, showed, however, that a total of 18 Japanese warships were damaged and 37 sunk, comprising two battleships, eight cruisers, two large destroyers or cruisers, 10 destroyers and 15 transports.

SEVERELY DAMAGED

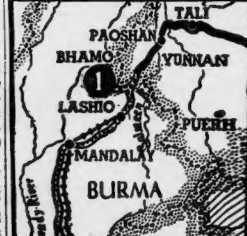

The Navy announced last Oct. 26 that a carrier was severely damaged after two attacks by Japanese bomber and torpedo planes. Five days later the vessel was declared lost, but the casualties among its personnel, normally 2,170, were reported few.

Describing the Hornet's last hours in a hitherto unpublished interview at Nutley, N. J., a month ago, Marine Pvt. George E. Kindmark, a survivor, told of two Japanese planes dive-crashing to the decks. The explosions wrecked the superstructure and set the big ship afire.

Patrol planes from the Hornet opened the battle, Kindmark related, after spotting an enemy task

Newton Officer Describes Fight

BURMA—American bombers cut Jap communications between northern and southern Burma in blasting an important bridge near Mandalay, below Lashio (1) ... and Yank fighters based in India attack Jap supply depots in northeastern Burma.

That's how Lieut. (j.g.) Robert J. Noone, USNR, 25, of Crown st., Auburndale, received a leg injury aboard the aircraft carrier Hornet just before she was sunk by two successive enemy attacks. During the attacks the Hornet sunk approximately 59 of the 64 Japanese planes.

Reported killed in action, Lieut. Noone later showed up for treatment in a San Diego, Cal., hospital. A Boston University graduate, he is the son of Thomas J. Noone of Auburndale.

He was a signal officer aboard the carrier and now the Associated Press has been permitted by the Navy Department to relay the young officer's story from San Diego.

"Chief Signzman Fred Guertin of Colton, Cal., and I were watching our gunners shoot down a torpedo plane which almost reached the ship," he said, "when suddenly we saw a damaged Jap plane bearing down on us."

Fliers in India Step Up Raids

NEW DELHI, Jan. 12 (INS)—The American Air Force based in India carried out 45 offensive operations over Japanese-occupied territory in that area during December, Brig-Gen. Clayton Bissell, commander of the USAF announced today, reporting a sharp increase in the air-offensive against the enemy.

The record of approximately three raids every 48 hours was a 50 per cent increase over scale of the November offensive, Gen. Bissell declared.

JURY DRAWN, STATE BEGINS EVIDENCE IN ERROL FLYNN TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12—Trial of Errol Flynn on three attack counts may last as long as three weeks and a score of witnesses, including many film colony notables will be called to testify.

John Hopkins, deputy district attorney, made this clear to the jury of five men and seven women today as presentation of evidence began in the case of the 33-year-old actor.

Actors Bruce Cabot and Charles Boyer, and Peter Stackpole, photographer for a national picture magazine, are among witnesses the State will call, Hopkins revealed.

Selection of two alternate jurors preceded start of testimony. As the final prospective jurors were questioned, the defendant sat with his attorneys, Jerry Geisler and Robert E. Ford. Deeply tanned, the blue-eyed, brown-haired actor was dressed in a dark-blue, double-breasted suit, a soft white shirt and a dark tie.

ACCUSERS STAND

His two teen-aged accusers, Peggy Larue Satterlee and Betty Hansen, stood to be viewed by the prospective jurors at the request of the court.

Miss Hansen was bare-legged, wearing high-heeled brown pumps, a tan sweater and a brown print skirt. Miss Satterlee was trim in a powder blue suit, with an open-throated white shirt under the jacket. She wore stockings and low-heeled black shoes.

Miss Satterlee, 16-year-old night club entertainer in Hollywood, charges that Flynn recently divorced husband of Lili Damita and father of a year-old child, attacked her twice aboard his palatial yacht, Sirocco, on a week-end cruise in August, 1941.

Miss Hansen, 17-year-old former Lincoln, Neb., school girl, who, like Miss Satterlee, came to Hollywood to seek a movie career, alleges that Flynn attacked her in Sept., 1942, during a party at the home of Fred McEvoy, wealthy British sportsman.

As on opening day, court attaches were forced to turn away scores of spectators, many of them fashionably dressed women, who sought admission to the small courtroom.

MOTION REFUSED

Selection of a jury got under way after Judge Leslie E. Still overruled a defense motion for a continuance, offered because two defense witnesses could not be present. They are Hayward Kingsley and Pio Espirito, former captain and cook, respectively, on the Sirocco. Both now are in, the armed service.

Before the motion was denied,

PEGGY LA RUE SATTERLEE Faces Flynn in Court

Atty. Ford told the court that Kingsley were here, he would testify that Flynn was at the yacht wheel most of the trip and that from his own stateroom he would have been able to hear any cry or struggle aboard.

At Flynn's preliminary hearing, Miss Satterlee testified she did not cry out since she thought her screams would not be heard by other guests aboard because of noise made by the vessel's machinery.

During examination of venetians today, Atty. Giesler questioned them principally on whether they had ever served on an attack case jury; whether their sympathies in this case might be affected by the age of the two girls, and whether they entertained any prejudices against movie actors. Most of them replied in the negative.

U. S. Jury Gets Facts On Liquor at Grove

Investigation into the Coconut Grove disaster moved forward on two legal fronts today as federal officials sought indictment from a federal grand jury charging that the night club's liquor dealing violated the internal revenue act, while state authorities prepared to move for trial in Suffolk Superior court against 10 indicted defendants.

In federal court, authorities revealed a secret investigation for six weeks into the huge cache of liquor found at the Grove as a result of the fire.

Government tax experts have placed a value of $160,000 on the liquor stock which included French cognacs, champagne, and large supplies of scotch, rye, bourbon and gin. The supplies were found by fire probes, immediately after the disaster, and the stock, one of the largest in the East, was placed in custody of federal authorities.

Joseph Hargedorf the East, was placed in custody of federal authorities.

Internal Revenue Agents made a search of the Grove, it was learned, and found liquor cached under the dance floor, behind two bars, behind walls, in closets and in the ceiling over the new lounge.

It was reported that all the liquor hiding places were fireproof.

EVIDENCE TO GRAND JURY

Indictments charging liquor tax evasion may be returned when the grand jury returns its findings, authorities said. Evidence has been presented to the grand jury by Asst. U. S. Atty. Joseph Hargedorf.

In Suffolk Superior Court today, Judge Frank J. Donahue was to hear arguments on motions and pleas and probably set trial dates in the cases of the ten men indicted by the Suffolk County grand jury on various charges growing out of the disaster.

Motions to dismiss indictments against three defendants were scheduled for hearing.

Atty. John C. Johnston filed in behalf of Samuel Rudnick, contractor who built the new bar and lounge at the night club, and David Gilbert of Allston, foreman for Rudnick. They are charged with conspiracy to violate the building laws.

MOONEY PRESSES FIGHT

For Theodore Eldracher of Hillside st., Roxbury, a Boston building inspector charged with failure to report violations of the building laws and lack of exits, Atty. Bernard J. Killion filed a plea in abatement as well as a motion to quash.

Simultaneously, former Judge Hugh D. McLellan, counsel for Building Commr. James H. Mooney, filed a bill of exception to last week's ruling of Judge Frank J. Donahue, refusing to dismiss the Mooney indictment charging neglect of duty.

Motions for Rudnick and Gilbert are based on the same grounds set forth last week for Mooney—that "no known crime either by statute or common law" was committed.

In his motion to quash the neglect of duty indictment, the building inspector pointed out that the indictment charged him as "being a public officer."

This he denied in the motion, claiming he is only a civil service employee and that his duties are "assigned to him at all times by the building commissioner and he has no discretion in his duties or the manner in which they are performed."

SECRET DIVORCE REVEALED—The marriage of screen stars Ann Sheridan and George Brent ended in divorce last Saturday in Cuernavaca, resort town near Mexico City, civil court documents revealed today. The decree was granted to the actress.

COAL SHORTAGE NOW LOOMS AS FUEL WOE

New hints of a possible coal shortage added an ominous note today to New England's fuel situation, as work was suspended in converting stoves from oil to coal in 5000 homes of Boston relief recipients.

Mayor Tobin, who has gone to Washington to give a special Senate investigating committee a firsthand picture of Boston's fuel plight, ordered the conversion work halted for the time being at least owing to a strike of Pennsylvania anthracite miners.

In Quincy, meanwhile, coal is being rationed to householders a month's supply at a time, in accordance with a rationing program drawn up by that city's coal dealers, at the request of Mayor Charles A. Ross.

Under a plan recently instituted by Mayor Tobin, the city of Boston has been changing the oil ranges in homes of hundreds of families receiving old age assistance, public welfare, mothers' aid and soldiers' relief.

HOPE IN AUTO BAN

The mayor observed, however, that little benefit would result to the families should the miners' strike bring about a coal shortage later in the winter.

This new complication led the average householder and fuel experts alike to hope that the ban on pleasure driving may prove so effective that unexpectedly large shipments of oil and coal can be sent into New England in place of gasoline.

That the cessation of motoring exceeded expectation of police and OPA officials was shown in the emphatic words of Lawrence J. Bresnahan, acting state OPA administrator, who said 600,000 Massachusetts drivers have "co-

HOW TO RAISE 16 BILLION EXTRA IS CONGRESS PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—One baffling question—How to raise an additional $16,000,000,000 this year for war purposes?—overshadowed all else on Capitol Hill today.

Some prominent legislators mentioned a federal retail sales tax, combined with increased compulsory loans, as a possible answer.

Other developments in Congress:

1—Agitation for an increase in the price ceilings on potatoes, beans and dairy products will confront Leon Henderson's successor as price administrator. President Roosevelt's nomination of former Sen. Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan for the job is expected to receive speedy Senate confirmation.

2—A special House committee on airplane accidents predicted in its final report that the peace-time future of aviation will be limitless, and urged appointment of standing committees to study its development.

3—A special Senate committee, informed that the petroleum outlook is "gloomy," asked the mayors of New York, Boston and Bridgeport, Ct., for suggestions on improving fuel oil and gasoline rationing.

4—An investigation of the American Federation of Musicians' ban against making recordings for radio stations and "juke boxes" was reopened today with James C. Petrillo, head of the union, slated to testify before a Senate subcommittee.

Chairman Doughton (D.) of North Carolina, said the House ways and means committee probably would tackle the revenue-raising problem within 10 days, exploring at the outset the possibilities of putting individual income taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis.

President Roosevelt, in presenting the record $109,000,000,000 wartime budget to Congress yesterday, recommended that taxes and compulsory loans to the government be increased to cover half the outlay, meaning another $16,000,000,000 be added to the estimated yield of $33,081,245,000 under present law.

Nazi Industrial Area Blasted

LONDON, Jan. 12 (INS)—RAF bombers soared over Germany during the night to carry out their sixth bombardment of the new year against the Reich industrial areas, it was announced today. Target of the assault was not immediately announced.

A German broadcast quoted the official German news agency DNB as stating that both heavy explosive bombs and incendiaries had been dropped "at random" on western Germany during a "nuisance" raid by the RAF.

The raid was the first night attack over Germany since Saturday, when huge four-motored British bombers showered the steel city of Essen with two-ton block-buster bombs.

BALANCE 100 BILLION BUDGET

Alas, It's Just Paper Talk!

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Apparently nobody noticed until today, but the new hundred billion dollar budget will balance.

And some say it hasn't happened before in years.

Of course, Mr. Roosevelt is the first President who ever tackled the budget-balancing job with the benefit of 10 years previous experience behind him.

But even at that, it took three-section strategy and the old odd-or-even shift to make history's biggest budget book of bucks come out even so the pages would balance on the scales.

Almost always before, the book containing the new year's budget turned out to have an odd number of pages—which inevitably threw the capital's budget balancers off balance.

What first upset the scales this year was the fact that the main section of the budget book contains 881 pages—impossible to divide evenly and balance. The 24-page introductory section didn't help any, because 881 and 24 add up to 905, and no matter how carefully weighed, that still leaves 452 pages on one side of the scales and 453 on the other.

But at this point, the balancers found the resourceful Mr. Roosevelt had suddenly shifted, reversed his field and added another section devoted strictly to "supporting data." Whatever that is, its 83 pages saved the day.

For 905 and 83 make 988—which puts 494 pages on each side of the scales, and balances beautifully.

Chain Store Heir Set Up Fund for Girl's Son, Claim

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (INS)—The mysterious $500,000 trust fund, established for the four-year-old son of dancer Mary Barton, who was found dead in her apartment in September, 1941, was set up by Huntington Hartford, Jr., heir to chain store millions, an affidavit on file in surrogate's court said today. Miss Barton's death is listed as a suicide.

Hartford's name was brought into the case when an affidavit, signed by Mary's closest friend, Virginina R. Caserta, a dancer known professionally as Tangia, was submitted in connection with a petition of Mary's foster father, William L. Grundhoefer, to have young Hartford examined in connection with the fund. Surrogate James A. Delehanty refused to sign the order.

Grundhoefer claimed he has frequently sought information but Hartford has refused to impart any knowledge of how or by whom the fund was set up. The order was sought in connection with Grundhoefer's court fight to obtain custody of the child, Edwin Barton Colt, now in possession of Grundhoefer's ex-wife, the present Mrs. John Colt. Hartford now is a lieutenant in the Army.

"Mary told me a number of times," Miss Caserta said in her affidavit, "that a trust fund has been established in an amount which she stated to be between a quarter and a half million dollars by Huntington Hartford, Jr., for the benefit of the child."

She added that this fund paid an income of from $900 to $1200 a month to her foster mother, Florence Colt, but that "Mary often told me that Florence was using this money for her own purposes and wasting the money on automobiles, private homes, servants and other useless expenditures."

"Shortly before Mary died," she said, "she told me she had consulted an attorney for the purpose of obtaining custody of her child. Florence refused to give the child to Mary."

Ration, Price Control To Be Tightened in N. E.

Tightening of federal control in rationing and price administration was predicted in Massachusetts today with disclosure that the State OPA office is being abandoned, to be replaced by three or more district offices.

New England Director Kenneth B. Backman, now in Washington conferring with former Senator Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan, successor to Price Chief Henderson, will continue in charge of the regional headquarters.

No successor is expected to be appointed, however, for Henry Parkman, Jr., who has just resigned as state director to enter the Army as a lieutenant-colonel.

For the time being, his duties are being carried out by Lawrence J. Bresnahan, acting state director, but Backman indicated Bresnahan will probably head the new district office in Boston. Other district offices are expected to be set up in Worcester and Springfield.

These districts, along with others in the neighboring states, will be administered directly from Washington through the regional headquarters, Backman said. In this way, federal rationing experts will be brought "closer to the people."

Cambridge police today renewed their efforts to apprehend a Negro who "walks like an ape" and who for the past three weeks has been annoying women, following the eighth report last night of his activities.

The woman, who phoned police and declined to give her name, said she was accosted by the Negro on Portland st. near Main st. and forced into a doorway.

She told police he placed his arms around her and started to kiss her. In the struggle that followed she managed to strike him and her screams routed him. All of the victims have described their assailant as being 22 or 23 years old, slight of build and wearing a leather jacket and no hat.

State Budget Hearings Due

The ways and means committee of the State Legislature announced plans today to hold public hearings next week on Gov. Saltonstall's interim budget of $37,439,045 for the seven months ending June 30. Date of the hearings was not set.

The budget was submitted with a plan for financing the proposed appropriations out of surpluses and revenues without resort to a state tax on cities and towns. The Governor announced that he later will submit a two-year budget to run from July 1, 1943, to June 30, 1945.

The interim budget was made necessary by the change-over of the commonwealth's fiscal year from Nov. 30 to June 30, to make it coincide with the federal fiscal year.

6 WOBURN HOUSES SET AFIRE AS PLANT BURNS

Six houses in the southern section of Woburn were set afire by flying embers and scores more threatened early today when a general alarm blaze, visible for 20 miles, wiped out the Kean-Bedell Co. patent leather factory.

One of the ignited homes was a mile away from the main fire. All the lesser blazes were quickly extinguished, however, with minor damage.

Six fire departments joined forces in battling the leather plant blaze, which flared up like a huge bonfire and totally destroyed the rambling, two-story wooden structure off Main st., Woburn. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

Seventeen families living on Conn st. near the factory were temporarily evacuated when the billowing flames threatened their homes.

The factory building, its floors soaked with linseed oil and naphtha used in the processing of patent leather, was entirely ablaze when firemen arrived, so their efforts were concentrated on saving other property in the vicinity.

In addition to the several houses nearby, the Beggs & Cobb leather factory was also endangered for a time. Firemen from Winchester, Medford, Stoneham, Reading and Arlington aided the Woburn department.

Probe Neglect Of Prisoners

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Jan. 12—An investigation sponsored by the Bridgeport board of police commissioners was underway today to learn why two prisoners were forgotten for four days in the Fairfield ave., police headquarters.

Board President Harold J. Morris said that Louis Kertesz, 58, and Stephen Nemeth, 59, were arrested on breach of peace and intoxication charges on New Year's Day. He said police assigned them to upper floor cells and then did not think of them until four days later.

Both men are still receiving medical care for exposure and hunger.

Wants El to Repay Old Deficits to Towns

City Councilor Charles I. Taylor of Roxbury wants the Boston Elevated to use its profits to pay back Greater Boston cities and towns which have made up past deficits incurred by the utility.

In a City Council motion, Taylor maintains that the 14 communities served by the road which made up past losses, should be reimbursed in proportion now that Elevated statements show the company is operating at a profit.

FLYNN SEEKS LaGUARDIA AID

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York may be called as a witness for Edward J. Flynn, retiring Democratic national committee chairman, if the Senate foreign relations committee decides at a meeting Friday to hold hearings on Flynn's nomination to be minister to Australia.

Chairman Connally (D.) of Texas, said today Flynn had informed him by telephone that he desired to have LaGuardia heard if any charges are made before the committee in connection with a paving block incident investigated by a Bronx grand jury which exonerated Flynn.

"Flynn said Mayor LaGuardia knew all about the paving block matter and could explain it to the committee's satisfaction," Connally told reporters.

CHAIRMAN CLEARED

The grand jury looked into charges that a courtyard on the Flynn estate had been paved with New York city materials and labor but cleared the Democratic chairman of any wrongdoing.

Previously Flynn had written Connally asking for "full and complete hearings" if any protests were made.

"It is unavoidable that through the many years in which I have held public offices and participated in political activities, occasions have arisen when my actions and personal character were assailed," Flynn wrote. "As is usually the case, such attacks have originated with persons who, without knowledge of facts, have seen fit to disparage my character."

"NOTHING" TO FEAR

Later in the letter Flynn added: "I have nothing to fear in my past life, either political or personal and I am willing to open it to the closest scrutiny if such a course should appear to be in the public interest."

Meanwhile, Republicans fired a barrage of criticism at the Flynn nomination, including a declaration in the Senate yesterday by Sen. Bridges (R.) of New Hampshire, that the selection was an "insult" to Australia.

Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee, asserted that the appointment was "so crassly cynical that it must be revolting to all decent citizens."

INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL TO AID $7,800,000 WAR FUND DRIVE

Combined labor-management support of the Greater Boston United War Fund campaign for $7,800,000 was promised today by the Industrial Relations Council of Metropolitan Boston.

Charles C. Cabot, Fund general chairman, announced the council will join actively in the drive's labor-management conference at Hotel Statler on Jan. 20.

"Employee participation in the United War Fund campaign this year will be on a broader basis than ever before," Cabot said. "It is expected that every employee will contribute ten hours' salary, to be collected in ten equal installments."

Plans for joint labor-management co-operation in the drive were developed last fall, Cabot disclosed, at conferences with management officials and representatives of the AFL and CIO. As an indication of the increased part labor will play in the drive, Fund headquarters announced that the Teamsters' Joint Council, No. 10, AFL, has contributed $200, doubling its gift of last year. Fifteen subscriptions of $500 and more by individuals were announced by the Fund's special gifts division. These individual gifts follow:

When the annual Red Cross campaign is staged next March, Greater Boston's goal will be $3,005,500, according to Chairman John R. Hamlen of the Metropolitan Chapter.

He emphasized that the war is making unprecedented demands on the Red Cross. The quota of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter has been set at $2,145,000 while the remaining $1,860,500 represents the quota of the 29 suburban chapters in the Greater Boston area.

Charles F. Rowley, Boston attorney, is general chairman of the drive and campaign headquarters are being established in the old S. E. Pierce building at Tremont and Beacon sts.

BUTTER STILL SPREADS THIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Little, if any, immediate relief in the present butter shortage is expected by dairy men, they said today, although the country has passed the point of lowest production and output will expand from now until July.

Butter is rationed voluntarily in practically all sections of the nation, but no official system under government control has been announced. Dairy men said they did not know when, if ever, government rationing would be introduced.

November and December are ordinarily the poorest months for making butter, as was the case in 1942. Output normally expands in January, and, with the exception of the short month of February, continues to increase until peak production in June.

Although more butter is being manufactured, dairy men said that production does not catch up with consumption until around the middle of April.

With 30 per cent of production each month set aside for military and lend-lease needs, dairy men said it would be unlikely that the total available for civilians would be sufficient even in the heaviest production months.

In the autumn of this year, trade sources predicted, the butter shortage may be more severe than now.

Governor Shivers in State House, Chops Farm Trees

You aren't the only one who's suffering from the fuel-oil shortage.

Gov. Sargent said himself revealed today that week-ends he has worked in the executive office with a hearth fire the only source of heat.

"We keep it going every day, and week-ends we depend on it. Sunday we worked here with the room temperature only 55 degrees. We huddled around the fireplace and had to keep our overcoats on," he said.

The Governor said that at his Chestnut Hill home they burned gas, but that they had closed part of the house and burned a great deal of wood cut at his Dover farm.

"We've all got to turn to hard work now," he said. "Saturday I chopped down two trees at Dover and sawed them into logs. After that I cleaned the whole cow-barn. You can't get help any more. A calf was going to be born, and I made the barn clean enough for a new baby."

The Governor has all the troubles of home now in his office. The chimney smokes and he hops up from his official business to fuss with the draft and put on new logs.

And as for hope of more supplies of oil for New England, all he could say was, "We're doing our best."

HOW HORNET WENT TO DEATH

SEATTLE, Jan. 12 (AP)—A surviving officer of the U. S. Aircraft Carrier Hornet related today that dive bombers, high level bombers and torpedo planes joined in six attacks which crippled the carrier fatally Oct. 26. He was below decks for much of the battle and had to escape through a wiring tube.

"The first Jap attack came just about 20 minutes after our own planes had taken off," said Lieut. William Rummens, of Seattle, an electrical officer.

"We were a lot of decks down," Lieut. Rummens said, "when the first torpedo hit us. It knocked everybody flat. I grabbed for a hardwood rail in front of the switchboard and it came right out by the roots. And almost at the same second a bomb crashed into the ship above us and exploded and started a fire blazing

"SMOKE GOT BAD"

"The smoke got pretty bad. You get religion in a spot like that. I said my little prayer just like everyone else. Then I began reminding myself that I was the senior officer present. There were about 35 men down there, in various compartments, near me, and it was up to me to lead them. "You say odd things at a time like that. A seaman—a talker—standing beside me, was opening and shutting his mouth. But words weren't coming out. I said: 'quit imitating a fish calling its mother.' I just said it, but it broke the tension.

"We worked as long as we could. The attacks continued all day. The impact of the bombs would make the switches pop out. We tried to keep them closed and check those that were damaged. But the smoke just got too thick. We couldn't get up on deck because of fire. But we got into the central station two decks up where the first lieutenant was in charge.

"FINALLY GOT OUT"

"It looked for a while as though we were trapped down there. But we finally got out by crawling up through an electrical wiring tube. It was just about as big around as a man and crowded with wires. We had to climb up inside it for 12 stories to get out.

"The deck was a shambles. There's no use trying to describe it. Three Japanese planes had crashed on us and burned, and we'd been bombed. That was about noon."

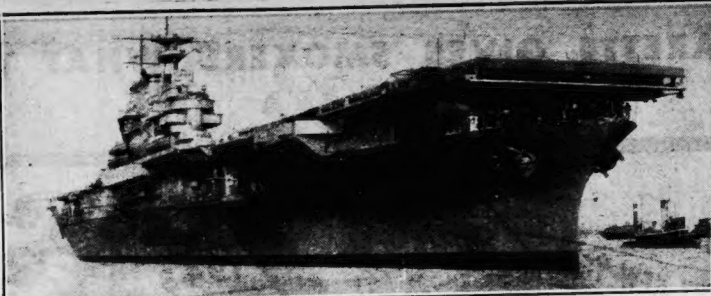

The final dive bombing attack, he said, came after abandonment of the ship.

force off the islands, some 350 miles northeast of Guadalcanal. American torpedo planes attacked and shortly Japanese bombers retaliated.

The enemy planes were dispersed but returned with a force in which the marine counted 84 planes.

"They seemed to have no other object than getting us," Kindmark observed. "Other ships were ignored."

Even after the Hornet was severely damaged, the carrier's guns kept firing and the survivor counted 25 falling enemy planes. Then, with the carrier burning fiercely, the order was given to abandon ship.

BEYOND REPAIR

Other American warships delivered the final blows to the carrier when it was found that she had been damaged beyond repair. Thus, the force of seven aircraft carriers with which the United States entered the war on Dec. 7, 1941, was reduced to three—the Enterprise, Saratoga and Ranger.

Of the other carriers, the Lexington was lost in the Battle of the Coral Sea, Yorktown at Midway and the Wasp in the Solomons.

The Navy's identifying announcement last night explained that the name of the carrier as well as those of the 10 other ships was withheld "for reasons of military security and to avoid causing needless anxiety on the part of relatives and friends of the personnel who survived these actions."

Next of kin of all personnel killed, wounded or missing have been notified, the Navy said. The only other American vessel lost in the action was the Destroyer Porter, previously announced. The Hornet's commander, Rear Admiral Charles P. Mason of Pensacola, Fla., is safe, the Navy added.

LAUNCHED IN 1940

The Hornet was built at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, Newport News, Va., launched Dec. 14, 1940, and christened by Mrs. Frank Knox, wife of the Secretary of the Navy. It was placed in commission in October, 1941, and was 770 feet long and normally carried 81 to 85 aircraft.

The Northampton was sunk and seven other American ships damaged on the night of Nov. 30.

ing down on us at terrific speed with both guns blazing." Several signalmen were badly burned in the flaming crash, "but all hands fought the fire. Some men risked their lives to move pyrotechnics from the bridge before they exploded.

"It was like that all over the ship. Radiomen who were not busy joined a bucket brigade. One radioman helped man a gun. Despite the noise we could hear him sing out, 'five shots for a nickel; shoot a Jap!'

"In the midst of the attack, a signalman braved enemy fire to climb a mast and string up a new halyard needed for signaling.

"One of our doctors, Lieut. Gerald McAteer, received some fractured ribs and an injured lung but he kept working and saved several lives.

"His actions were typical of those of the crew."

Green U. S. Gunners Bag 59 Jap Planes

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12 (AP)—Gunners aboard the aircraft carrier Hornet shot down "approximately 59 of the 64 Japanese planes" that attacked her before the order was given to abandon ship, members of her crew said here today.

Two shattered enemy planes crashed on her decks, the seamen said in statements released by the Fourth Naval District.

One exploded on the flight deck near the bridge, "starting a furious fire," and the other dived under the flight deck into a row of officers' staterooms, its controls shot away as it attempted to swerve after launching a torpedo.

The story of the Hornet's fighting death was told by Gunner's Mate Alvin Grahm, now in this navy yard base. The attacking planes came in two waves, Grahm said, while the Hornet's attack planes and other units of a U. S. task force were defeating a Jap force northeast of Guadalcanal.

"It was just like the pause before a football game when everyone is listening for the referee's whistle for the kickoff. And suddenly a shout: 'Here they come, commence firing!'" said Grahm.

"Some of us had never fired at enemy planes and the boys were making bets of the chances of getting a crack at dive bombers and torpedo planes. Within seven or eight minutes, we had shot down 50 of the 54 which came over in the first attack."

The first wave, however, scored repeated hits and other vessels in the American force ranged alongside her with fire hoses going to help put out the fires.

Then the second combined dive bomber-torpedo plane attack began, Grahm related.

"I counted six torpedo planes and four dive bombers and we shot down all the torpedo planes and only one bomber got away," he added.

30 Minutes Decided Fate of Carrier

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 12 (AP)—If the Japs had waited 30 minutes longer between bombing attacks, says Lieut. James G. Kelsey, Waterbury, Conn., the Hornet might have been saved.

"I believe the second bombardment, five hours after the initial attack, cost our ship," Kelsey, an engineering officer aboard the aircraft carrier, declared in a Navy-approved interview.

If those planes had come in half an hour later, we would have had our power system working.

"We were just warming up the generators when the new attack started. In 30 minutes, we would have had one turbine going again. That would have given us a chance to get the engines going and to dodge the Japs.

"During the first attack on the Hornet at 10 a. m., the Japs succeeded in putting the electrical power system and main engines out of commission, and the ship was left dead in the water.

"The crew never ceased working as the bombs and torpedoes exploded. It was nerve wracking because we could not see the planes and never knew when one might hit us. We were tossed about several times, but everyone recovered and went right back to work."

A Scratching Dog May Be in Torment

He is in frenzied torment—his body aches and he scratches himself. But you may try giving him, as thousands are doing, Rex-Busters Dog Powder. NO LET-UP IN DRIVE

The 71 car owners whose gas ration books have been suspended by the Massachusetts OPA headquarters are but an "infinitesimal" part of the number who hold 1943 registrations, Bresnahan pointed out.

Books of 43 additional owners may be suspended, also, following investigations, since it had been announced that there were 119 apparent violations among the 935 machines halted up to last midnight.

In New Hampshire, approximately 2000 motorists have been stopped and questioned.

Bresnahan said OPA inspectors will continue the drive without let-up, adding that his superiors in Washington will have to answer the question of Motor Vehicle Registrar Goodwin as to how long the ban will last.

Suspensions of ration books are being ordered only in cases where there is clean-cut proof of violations, Bresnahan emphasized. He said local ration boards would recover the books and, after making investigations of their own, recommend when the books should be returned to the owners.

WEIGH SATURDAY CLOSING

One phase of the fuel crisis which experts said the ban could not help much is the shortage of bunker oil, the heavy-type fuel used in factories and large buildings.

Owners of wholesale houses and office buildings in Massachusetts are studying a request from Gov. Saltonstall to close every Saturday for the duration of the crisis, as they did over the Christmas and New Year's week-ends.

In Rhode Island, Gov. J. Howard McGrath is seeking legislative enactment of a bill authorizing him to inaugurate a five-day week for business establishments not directly engaged in the war effort.

OIL HOPES BRIGHTEN

The range oil and kerosene situation continues to look brighter and Col. Thomas F. Sullivan, state conservator, for the first time expressed optimism concerning this type of fuel.

Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies in Washington informed Cong. John W. McCormack that shipments of 8000 to 6000 drums of kerosene a day have already begun for New England, with 200,000 drums assigned to the Boston area and prospects that this number may be increased to 500,000.

Each drum carries 55 gallons of kerosene, and when the shipments reach 6000 daily it is believed Boston residents will not have to worry further about oil for their stoves.

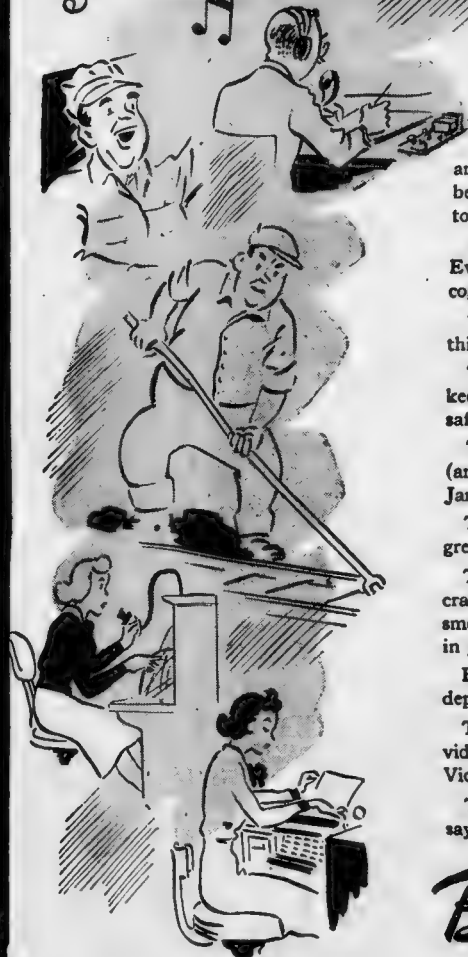

Small dealers and peddlars in Greater Boston now have fuel tanks for the first time in weeks.

You all meet the Conductor and the Trainman, the Fireman and the Engineman, the Ticket Agent and the Freight Agent. They've been your friends for years. But there are others who are necessary to keep the trains moving.

Behind the scenes are equally important people—all railroaders, too. Every man and woman of them is a specialist, carefully trained, a vital cog in the great railroad system.

There are women who type, do accounting, do almost countless other things. One of them even tends crossing gates!

There are dispatchers—who plot the route and issue the orders which keep trains—passenger and freight—constantly on the move, with safety.

There are trackmen—those unsung railroaders who patrol the tracks (and keep 'em rideable) in the hot suns of July and the freezing nights of January.

There are signalmen—who keep the myriad signal lights of red and green always shining "Stop" or "Go"—for safety.

There are shopmen—grimy, greasy, but a jolly crew, proud of their craftsmanship. They're the boys who can take a locomotive apart, from smokestack to pony wheels, repair it, put its 24,968 parts together again in jig-time.

Every minute, every hour, every day, someone's life—maybe yours—depends on some of these folks.

There are 16,000 of them on the Boston and Maine working to provide, 24 hours every day, the kind of transportation which will insure Victory and the end of the war.

That's why every man and woman among them is proud to be able to say—"I AM WORKING ON THE RAILROAD"

Legislation At Minimum

House and Senate leaders predicted today a minimum amount of new legislation would occupy the Massachusetts legislature at this session. Only 359 bills have been filed to date, 274 less than the number filed on the same date at the start of the last session. Closing date for new bills is Friday, and legislative leaders have indicated that only petitions of utmost importance would be accepted after the deadline under waivers of the rules.

Talmadge Steps Out As Ga. Governor

ATLANTA, Jan. 12 (AP)—Red-suspended Eugene Talmadge, fiery landmark of Georgia politics for nearly a quarter of a century, walked out of the governor's office today to take his place in civilian life—and it was not a happy prospect for the "Sage from Sugar Creek."

Pledged to "restore democracy and decency" in Georgia's government, Ellis Gibbs Arnall, 35-year-old attorney general, was inaugurated today as the state's 71st chief executive to succeed the veteran Talmadge, who is vacating the political scene after three gubernatorial terms.

It was a disappointed Talmadge who left office. He had strongly hoped for a fourth term and there was a strong hint that someday he might try again for, he said he is "still a young man." Talmadge was 58 last September.

Military authorities who declined to be quoted by name expressed the opinion today, however, that on the basis of available information the enemy's hold on their bleak outpost off Alaska probably is little if any more secure than it was last fall when Army air attacks eased off because of the fog and darkness that set in with winter.

One of the most recent indications that the Japanese have not been idle came when two Lightning fighters escorting medium bombers on a raid over Kiska Harbor were shot down by four Japanese floating type Zero planes on Dec. 30. Only one of the Zeros was destroyed.

That was the first evidence in many weeks that the Japs had float planes at Kiska and occasioned considerable surprise that they had been able to move in such reinforcements.

FINGERS USELESS

The Japanese moved into Attu, Agattu and Kiska islands, the westernmost Aleutians, last June simultaneously with their attack on Midway island. Their defeat at Midway left the northern arm of what they apparently had intended as a pincer drive on the North American continent more or less useless and soon American air and naval attacks frustrated any subsequent plan they may have worked out to generate an independent offensive in the Aleutians.

Throughout the summer and well into the fall these attacks were carried out with the regularity of clockwork and the Japs lost heavily in ships and planes. The air assaults were intensified when the Army, with naval support, established in late September an advanced air base in the Andreanof islands, only 125 miles from Kiska at the nearest point.

LEAVE 2 ISLANDS

About the same time the Japs withdrew from Attu and Agattu and strengthened their hold on Kiska.

Late in November a communication disclosed that the Japs had sent new forces into Attu and set up anti-aircraft defenses which on Nov. 26 were strafed by Army fighter planes. Since then American aircraft have noted various cargo or transport ships in the Kiska area.

'LEGION HEAD URGES: 'WIN WAR NOW, TALK PEACE LATER'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (INS)—Roane Waring, national commander of the American Legion, declared that a crushing victory over the Axis must be the nation's sole aim now and that the terms of peace and plans for social reform should wait until the war is over.

Waring spoke at the Mayflower Hotel before members of the Senate and House Military and Naval Affairs committees, the Senate Finance committee, the House World War Veteran's committee and key Legionnaires assembled in Washington for annual meetings. His address was broadcast.

"We of the American Legion are practical in our approach as to what is necessary now. Our sole aim must be to devote our every effort, our every thought, our every resource to the victorious conclusion of this war. Until this war is over and victory won, we must not weaken our efforts by vain and premature planning for a new and never to be attained world-wide Utopia.

"We must meet the challenge of this hour with the needs of the hour—we must make war. We must not busy ourselves with the terms of a peace not yet won except to make the single resolution that it must be a peace of absolute military victory, a dictated peace, and never a negotiated peace."

Asserting that "we cannot pause in the midst of battle to decide sociological questions nor to determine how we can bring the idealistic freedoms to the people of all the world," Waring added that "such theories have no place in a war to the death."

Waring said the Legion is "critical of some of the proposed changes in our war policy." Decisions regarding the size of the Army should be left to the general staff, he said, adding:

"No manpower and no civilian committee or group can wisely determine such a question."

New Council President Quits After 5 Minutes

Boston's City Council still lacked a president today, even though its members have spent most of their meeting time since the first of the year in voting for various candidates and did manage to elect Councilor Theodore F. Lyons of Roslindale as their leader.

But his first official act was to resign, five minutes after ascending the president's dais amid the applause of the members. A first-class seaman in the Navy, he explained he may be assigned to sea duty any time and thus cannot serve the people of Boston as their council president.

A week ago the voting was ended by a filibuster, after the best any candidate could do was to round up nine votes. Prior to Lyons' election, Councilor Joseph Russo of the West End garnered 11, one short of the minimum of 12 required.

The councilors paused long enough to pass several resolutions, also to act favorably on an order to request Mayor Tobin to include the entire $200 increase for firemen and police in the 1943 budget instead of extending $100 to the 1944.

They also went on record as favoring a Boston man's appointment to fill the vacancy left on the Boston bench by the late Chief Justice Putnam and approved drawing up a post-war project to remove the Washington st. El structure from Forest Hills to Broadway tunnel.

IF YOU HAVEN'T a WAAC or a WAVE, or even a feminine riveter in your home, you'll get a kick out of seeing a demonstration of the duties of our petticoat armies in a pageant this afternoon at the Copley Plaza.

The pageant, called "Women at War," is being presented by a leading downtown specialty store in co-operation with the Women's War Savings Committee of Boston and admission is by war stamps and bonds.

As an interlude in a lighter vein Eleanor "Sister" Frothingham is singing "Rosie the Riveter," while a group of glamorous models parade up and down the runway showing the types of working togs worn by the gals on wartime jobs.

MRS. HUGH O'NEILL HENCKEN of Chestnut Hill, a former English girl who came to Boston at the time of her marriage, is identifying the English and Canadian uniforms and telling of the duties of WRENS and British land army.

The ushers, in patriotic red, white and blue will include Penelope Griswold, Priscilla Hunnewell, Louisa Clark, Mrs. Harry Marowitz, Sylvia Wood, Barbara Jenney, Mrs. Leon Evan, Barbara Connolly, Mrs. Edward Frye, Joan Jouett, Mrs. John Sweeney, Mrs. Wayne Watkins and Susan Byers.

LUCY AND DIANA BANGS, four-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Bangs of Nahant, are eagerly awaiting their first visit to Richardson House to see their new baby brother. The infant was born Friday but his grandmother, Frothingham (Mrs. Theodore) says that as yet it is undecided what his name is to be. Mrs. Bangs is the former Dorothea Frothingham.

Mrs. Ellen Raymond of Yonkers, New York, learned what a wonderful sudser Super Suds is by making the "milk-bottle suds test!"

"One thing I sure used to hate washin' was this heavy sweater of my husband's. But now, with all the EXTRA SUDS I get from Super Suds, it's a cinch! Comes out of those THICK, RICH SUDS so clean and soft! You just wouldn't believe how so much MORE SUDS and such LONGER-LASTIN' SUDS have hurried up my wash!"

BET you're like Mrs. Raymond... been on the look-out for more suds, longer-lasting suds for years! At last, here's a soap that does give you MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS, HARDER-WORKING SUDS... like women have always wanted. It's new, sudsier Super Suds. "I CERTAINLY GOT A SHORT MEASURE OF SUDS FROM MY REGULAR SOAP... LOOK HOW STINGY THEY ARE... AND THEY DIDN'T LAST AT ALL!"

IRON-RICH FOODS Vital Need Now

By MARTHA LEE

WHILE RESOLUTIONS are the order of the day, don't overlook the most important one for those of us on the home front—to "keep well."

Good health, our potent weapon in meeting unforeseen emergencies, is the shining sword with which Uncle Sam can face enemies whose own civilian strength and morale we think are gradually ebbing.

The rules for keeping well are simple: Eat right; get your rest; see your doctor once a year; "play" some each day. Easy enough to follow if you have the will to do it.

Eating right comes first. It means the right food to grow on, to repair worn parts, to give energy in these busy days. What you overlook gets you into trouble. Nutritionists say that too many of us are overlooking iron—iron that is essential in making good red blood, that is a number one requirement for health and vigor. So here's a good starting off place on the road to eating right—make sure that your day's iron requirements are satisfied.

HOW TO GET IRON

And how do you do this? By eating plenty of iron-rich foods. These are the richest source of this mineral: Liver, molasses, oatmeal, dried apricots and raisins, eggs, whole wheat, lean beef and mutton, cabbage and spinach. Molasses is so rich in the iron that the body actually uses that a mere three tablespoonfuls will supply about one-third of the day's needs, the doubtful third not always supplied even by the sum total of all the other foods in the day's meals.

Molasses, fortunately, is not only a delicious food to be used on waffles, griddle cakes and other hot breads, in milk shakes, gingerbreads, cookies, puddings and pies, but it is the least expensive food source of iron. Let the initial step in your "keep well" resolution be supplanting other mineral-deficient sweets with iron-rich molasses.

LOUISIANA BREAD PUDDING

8 slices day-old bread, cubed
2 tbs. sugar
1/4 tsp. salt

Pour over the bread. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. F. for one hour or until firm. Makes 8 servings.

GINGERBREAD

3 tbs. butter
1/2 cup sugar

1/2 cup molasses

Cream together butter and sugar, add beaten egg, then add alternately the dry ingredients which have been sifted together and the mixture of milk

MANY-PURPOSE COAT BIG ASSET IN SPRING WARDROBE

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A COAT that can be a lot of things to its owner is something that everybody wants at this time. There are different variations of such versatile wraps, and the one in our sketch is one that I like very much.

It is a coat that is called "the drawstring coat" because it fastens on a drawstring at the waistline. But this is more than a drawstring fastening. It is made so that the upper part of the coat can be detached and worn as a sort of lumberjack jacket. If you need a lighter wrap in spring, The drawstring interlocks the skirt and the jacket top.

The tone of this coat is casual. It's made of beige cashmere wool but at the same time it can be worn for civilized doings as well as for hard-purpose activities. The big revers and collar are bordered with hand stitching, and the roomy sleeves have welted seams down the center from the armhole to the wrists.

and molasses. Pour in a buttered shallow pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 30 to 45 minutes.

GINGER CHEESE MUFFINS

2 cups flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. soda
1/4 tsp. ginger
1/4 tsp. salt
1 beaten egg
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup molasses
1/4 tsp. melted shortening
2-3 cup grated cheese

Sift all the dry ingredients together. Beat the egg well and gradually add to it the milk, then molasses. Slowly add the second mixture to the dry ingredients, stirring constantly. When smooth, add the melted shortening and fold in the grated cheese last. Half fill greased muffin tins with the mixture and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot with butter. Makes 16 muffins.

Love and Marriage This Girl is Hopeful

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Do all girls have a chance to marry sooner or later? Some day I want to marry. I want the feeling of security and someone to love me.

I've been ill for two years, and now I'm back in college and trying to forget all I went through. I'm only 18 years old and want friends, pretty clothes, etc. What do men look for in a woman? My girl friends all seem to "throw a line." I'm not like that and am too shy to flirt. Please give me some hints.

M. S.

At 18 you've still plenty of time to wait for the right man to come along. And I hope you won't rush into matrimony as so many girls are doing these days. As for the things a man likes in a girl it depends on the man, of course. If he's the type of man you hope to go through the years with, his choice will fall on a girl who has the same ideals as he has.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm in love with a boy in the Army who always said he was in love with me. We corresponded, and he came to see me after the first of every month. But now someone else has come between us. He wrote me and told me he would have to marry a certain girl, because she's going to have his child. This has surely hurt me, as I always thought he was true to me. However, he doesn't want it to make any difference between us and asks that I keep on writing to him. Do you think I should?

K.

To my way of thinking, it would be very unwise for you to continue corresponding with a man who is the husband of another girl. He has done the right thing in marrying the girl for whose child he accepts the responsibility. The best thing for him to do now is to try and make a go of his marriage.

Grand in Winter Fine Dry Shampoo

By ARLINE GOULD

IN YESTERYEARS it was the business-bound beau, who dashed about the country in planes, that occasioned the most last-minute trials . . . when he arrived suddenly, and there were you needing a shampoo to look even presentable! Today it's the service husband or young man who arrives unexpectedly furlough in hand . . . and since you're busier than ever, you have a really good excuse this time for being caught with hair that needs shampooing!

However, you have a very modern invention around to help you . . . to replace that ancient standby, orris root, or corn meal. If you are allergic to either of these, then the new featherweight, fragrant powder will be a lifesaver more ways than one. This is not only a new aid, it has its own special method . . . a great improvement on the regular method of brushing, brushing, brushing!

This is also a grand help to have around when the children develop sniffles . . . or when your husband does, for that matter. It'll keep him better groomed, too. Substitute it for your own soap and water shampoo if a cold threatens.

They say this dry shampoo will cleanse your hair of every vestige of dirt and grime . . . and leave your precious waves undisturbed . . . in 10 minutes flat.

CURLS LIVELIER AND FRESHER

A terry cloth mitt comes with each shaker-top container of the powder, and a good hairbrush you will have to provide. What sheer your hair has when it's finished . . . curls seem livelier and fresher . . . and the hair is sweet scented as well as immaculate.

In the shaker-top container there is enough powder for 30 shampoos, and the price, mitt included, is $1.

After the dry shampoo powder is applied in sections, "wipe" the whole length of the hair strands of that section with the mitt . . . this is to be done before brushing, and it really cleanses with extraordinary thoroughness.

Rambler's Ramblings

Day by day we hear of little pay raises here 'n' there for certain. . . . Latent rumor to reach our ears is that the City Hospital board of trustees approved a $400 annual increase in pay for the superintendent of the hospital. . . . Of course it's just rumor. . . . And if one can believe rumors, there's one traveling about that the superintendent of that hospital plans to retire in the near future. . . . Did you know that the welfare list has hit a new low? . . . 'N' WPA is practically extinct. . . . The drop in welfare, decrease in WPA, retirement, deaths, and departure of city employees to join the armed forces or defense work are greatly responsible for the city's present financial standing. . . . The atstoge also states that those in the so-called "know" are betting 2-1 that when the tower is finally completed, autos will have been banned completely from our highways.

News and Notes

What group of municipal employees protested the salary committee's pay increase setup by letter? . . . Have you made your contribution for the Comdr. One Cambridge representative is seriously considering introduction of legislation whereby the top salary for a city manager under Plan E form of government will be far lower than $20,000—lower than the $15,000 being paid here. . . . Mention of local reps brings to mind that one member of the House from Cambridge is seriously considering introduction of a bill which will abolish the coming municipal election, in the interest of saving the city a sizable sum of money. . . . He's getting opinions from the politically wise, 'n' if he's guided by opinions given, he'll forget about it all. . . . Today's Letter

City Fire Fighters' Union today forwarded Ralph Lawson, manager of the Woolworth store in Central sq., the following letter, a copy of which was forwarded to the Cambridge Central Labor Union: . . . "Dear Mr. Lawson—The members of the Cambridge Fire Department who were called to clear water from the F. W. Woolworth store which you manage wish to express their appreciation of the Christmas gift you sent them. . . . We wish to express our gratitude also to the charming young lady in charge of your restaurant, who, though the time was after midnight, served us those much needed cups of coffee. . . . Since it seems to be the exception rather than the rule for a man in your position to appreciate so generously the services we as members of the Cambridge Fire Department were able to give you, the members of the City Fire Fighters' Union, Local 30, in meeting, instructed the undersigned officers of the union to send this letter to you, which we are most happy to do. . . . Thanking you again, and wishing you a prosperous New Year, we are sincerely yours, Joseph C. Lehan, president; Theodore L. Schneider, secretary."

Council Approves $100 Police, Fire Pay Raise; C. L. U. Protests Action

Mayor John H. Corcoran's amended ordinances creating $100 salary increases for police and firemen for this year, with a provision for an additional $100 increase in 1944, met with the approval of the council yesterday after much discussion.

Navy Air Cadet. Charles J. Collins, 20, son of Patrolman and Mrs. Frederick V. Collins of 460 Huron ave., Cambridge, left yesterday to attend an eight-weeks training course at University of Texas. The youth, a former mechanical and electrical student at Northeastern University, later will report at the Pre-Flight School at Chapel Hill, N. C., then take advanced courses in Florida and Squantum.

396 Localities Of 'Teen Age Registered

Cambridge's four draft boards registered 507 'teen-age youths for Selective Service up to Jan. 1, including 396 residents of Cambridge and 111 residents of other communities who found it more convenient to register here.

This latter group included Harvard and Technology undergraduates.

Board 47 at the Philips Brooks House, Wards 6, 7 and 8, led in number of registrations with 230, of whom 90 represented boys living outside the area which the board covers.

Board 45, Wards 1 and 2, East Cambridge, was next with 114, of whom nine were non-residents. Board 46, Wards 3, 4 and 5, had 84, of whom 10 were non-residents, while Board 48, Wards 9, 10 and 11, reported 79, of whom only two were non-residents.

Registration still continues for those who are just reaching their 18th birthday. These boys are expected to report to the board when they become 18. So far, these additional registrations have been trickling in, with two of Cambridge's boards reporting no additional registrations.

Mayor Corcoran first offered his amended ordinance on fire department salaries when the ordinance creating a $200 increase this year came up to be ordained.

The mayor told the council that he was not going to review the situation again in detail insofar as members were acquainted with his proposition. He pointed out, however, that if the ordinance as amended was passed he was confident that there would be no litigation.

CITES F. D. R. POLICY

He added that since the last council meeting the President of the United States had said he believed the country should be run on a pay-as-you-go basis and stated that his ordinances on police and firemen as amended were in line with this policy. Concluding, he said:

"We should be careful to keep our city in good sound financial condition during this war so that when our boys come back from the war areas they will say that we on the home front have done a good job while they were away."

Councilor William M. Hogan took the floor to endorse the mayor's proposed amended ordinance, pointing out that the sole question for the council to decide was whether the increase would be $100 this year and an additional $100 next year, or a flat $200 increase this year.

He said, in part: "We are going into 1943 without borrowing any money and without a deficit, but we realize that we are not going to receive considerable revenues and income in the city as we have in past years."

"I believe that this amended ordinance is fair from the point of view of the taxpayer, fair from the viewpoint of the employees of other departments, from the viewpoint

Municipal Oil Center Sought

Councilors Thomas M. McNamara and Hyman Pill will soon confer with City Manager John B. Atkinson as a committee of three appointed by the city council to try to set up a municipal oil center in Cambridge for people who have been unable to obtain oil.

Councilor McNamara, father of the order creating the committee, severely criticized Massachusetts representatives in Washington for not seeing to it that Massachusetts was properly taken care of with sufficient oil.

He said in part:

"There are over 20 gas stations closed in this city due to the gas shortage and each station has tanks which hold at least 3000

The Cambridge Central Labor Union today stood opposed to the Cambridge City Council's passage of an amended ordinance giving a $100 annual increase in salary to firemen for this year and providing for an additional $100 increase next year.

Members of the C. L. U., affiliated with the AFL, voted unanimously to take immediate action opposing the amended ordinance presented by Mayor John H. Corcoran and receiving final approval of seven members of the council.

The C. L. U., acting in the interest of the Cambridge Fire Fighters' Union, Local 30 of the International Ass'n of Fire Fighters, voted to request a meeting with members of the council for the purpose of seeking consideration of the original ordinance which granted a $200 annual increase this year.

HEARING SOUGHT

A large committee of volunteer members of the C. L. U. will request members of the council to grant them a hearing before next Monday's council meeting, with a view to having the present fire department ordinance amended to provide for the $200 salary increase this year.

Action of the C. L. U. came at the regular semi-monthly meeting last evening in Cypress hall after representatives of the Fire Fighters' Union appealed for assistance in defeating the present amended ordinance.

The volunteer committee is headed by President Howard Litchfield.

OTHER ACTIONS

Members of the C. L. U. also voted to make the annual contribution to the President's Birthday Ball Infantile Paralysis Fund and approved an order

John F. McNamara, chairman of the Somerville Licensing Commission, has been re-elected for 1943.

Other members of the commission are David Y. Ross and Joseph Lonergan, both residents of Powder House Blvd., McNamara resides on Dartmouth st.

That is the last her family saw or heard of her, Mrs. Lillian Cyr, the girl's mother, reported today as she sought the help of the Boston Evening American in locating the missing girl.

Lorraine's brother, Richard, 18, of the U. S. Navy, is also terribly worried about her, and several times weekly has asked for news about her.

Next month, the sailor-brother will be home for a brief leave. He will want to see his sister.

"We have been frantic about Lorraine's disappearance," the girl's mother said today. "She was to have returned to school a few days after she ran away."

Lorraine, a sixth grade pupil in the Toddskins School, is large for her age. Her mother said she could easily pass for over 16.

When she left her home she was wearing red corduroy slacks, brown and white check coat, brown shoes, white ankle socks, and a kerchief on her head.

Dark-eyed, the girl has a "Veronica Lake" long bob.

4 FINED AS DIMOUT VIOLATORS; ONE APPEALS

Four men—two storekeepers and two taxicab drivers—were arraigned before Judge Philip Sherman in Somerville District Court yesterday charged with failing to properly observe the dimout regulations.

Three of the offenders were fined $15 each, while the fourth man was fined $25, appealed the fine and furnished securities for his appearance in Superior Court.

All four men were in court on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas Damery who had made an investigation of the alleged violations in company with John F. McGann, chairman of the Somerville Public Safety Committee.

Judge Sherman, in imposing the fines on the men, took the occasion to impress on them the importance of the dimout, pointing out that they should be patriotic and co-operate.

"We are all in this together," said Judge Sherman, "and everyone should do his part. There is no excuse for any violation as everyone has been given plenty of warning and all know what they are supposed to do. It is vital to everyone to carry out these regulations."

The taxicab operators, Joseph Ranauro, 36 of Florence st., East Somerville, and Frank L. Larkin, 42 of Center st., Newton, were charged with violation of executive order No. 40 by having illuminated signs atop their cabs.

Both pleaded guilty. Larkin was fined $15 and paid. Ranauro was fined $25 and appealed.

Judge Sherman explained that Ranauro was fined $25 because his employer had been warned previously.

The two storekeepers, Philip Miller, 47 and married, of Winston rd., Dorchester, who conducts a store at 46A Cross st., East Somerville, and Eugene Calderone, 38, of College ave., Medford, a storekeeper at 329 Broadway, Somerville, were also charged with violation of Executive Order No. 40.

The officials claimed that the men had failed to black out the windows and doors of their stores so as to prevent the light from within showing on the outside on the sidewalk. Both pleaded guilty to the charge and were fined $15 each, which they paid.

The Home Fronts and Global Strategy

EIGHTH EVENING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, JAN. 14, 1943

FOLLOWING is the second of a series of articles written by former President Herbert Hoover appraising the situations on the belligerent, occupied and home fronts as they appear today, as they loom in the future, and their relation to global strategy:

By HERBERT HOOVER

ALL IS NOT WELL upon the German home front today. The blitz and terror which were to have won a short war have in a large sense failed. Germany has abandoned the hope that she can bring the war to a swift conclusion.

Warned by the collapse on the home front in World War I, the Germans this time made great preparations in expanded agriculture, in stored food, metals, textiles and in synthetic production of oil, rubber, explosives. Upon invasion of Norway, Holland, Belgium, Yugoslavia, France, Poland and the Ukraine she seized their accumulated stores.

In consequence of this advance preparation and this robbery, Germany was not substantially short of supplies during the first two years of the war. But she has consumed her stocks and there is much less to be taken from the invaded countries. The tide has now turned on the home front, and all the forces of internal degeneration are now in action.

By working millions of prisoners and imported labor they have kept up the bread, potato, and vegetable supplies. The so-called normal bread and cereal ration amounts to a rate of about 260 pounds per person per annum against the 200 pounds the American people eat.

But the story in meats and fats is far different. The blockade has greatly reduced her imports of vegetable and fish oils and feed for her animals. Her animal products have greatly diminished.

All calculations of meat and fat supplies are very involved, but the following represent an approximation and indicate the trend. In 1936, the Germans consumed at the rate of about 165 pounds of combined meats and fats of all kinds per person per annum. In 1939, the "normal" ration was at the rate of about 105 pounds; in 1940, about 91 pounds; in 1941, about 81 pounds, and in 1942, it was about 70 pounds per annum. Hard workers get more. This does not indicate any substantial meat or fat supplies from the Ukraine.

AT MY DIRECTION after the last war, an investigation of the food experience during the war indicates that the present amount of fats in their ration is below the full health level to the ordinary consumer.

But equally important is the degeneration of practically all other supplies for civilian use, including clothing and coal. The people suffer from cold in winter. Overcrowding is adding its miseries.

The wear and tear on the railways and machine shops and their destruction by air attack are creating difficulties in transportation and manufacture. German manpower on the home front is weakening steadily despite forced labor from the occupied countries.

Mentally the people have retreated from confidence of victory and have fallen back upon resolutions of defense. They now realize that they are an island in a sea of 200,000,000 invaded and starving people who hate them with an irreparable bitterness. And thus the Germans know the dream of the new order in Europe has vanished. The terrors of aerial bombardment and the losses in battle are having a depressing effect upon the spirit of the people.

That the home front is far from contented is indicated by the Nazi fortifications of strategic buildings in preparation to quell civil disturbances and by the placement of Nazi generals in command of the armies over the old staff.

Further degeneration cannot be stopped. However, I do not believe the Germans will collapse again internally at the end of this their fourth winter in this war. But it is impossible for them to withstand indefinitely these pressures on the home front.

THERE IS, however, at once a major reservation to this statement. Germany is still potent for offensive, and she is under tremendous pressures from the home front to break somewhere the ring which surrounds her.

The only direction she can gain substantial relief for the home front is to the southeast. If her armies could effect junction with the Japanese in the Indian ocean by defeat of the United Nations in Persia or Egypt and India, they could open a new economic area from which great relief could come—rubber, metals and oil.

She could get food, particularly fats, fruit and sugar. She could lift her whole standard of living, and in such an event the home front would stiffen for an indefinite number of years.

(Tomorrow, in this column, Mr. Hoover will continue his analysis of war strength and strategy.)

SAID Thomas Yalden: "The lips he must briskly invade that would possess the heart" . . . Observed Robert Burton: "Blessed is the wooing that is not long doing" . . . Stated Byron: "Brisk confidence still best with woman copes" . . . In a London market a woman gave one of the attendants a couple of theater tickets and in this way was able to get more food than she was allowed by rationing regulations. In the same market another woman "made eyes" at one of the salesmen and so inspired him to give her some extra tea. Or so it was testified in a recent rationing case in London. So far this department has received no reports as to male market attendants in the United States being influenced with theater tickets or having their resistance weakened by female customers "making eyes" at them. If any of our subscribers has a husband who works in a market, our sincere hope is that he is a man of great strength of character and immune to the wiles of women. A good looking and desperate female seeking an extra pound of steak might be difficult to resist if she began turning on the charm.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: There are about 1,800,000 stores in the United States. None of 1,400,000 of these stores does more than $20,000 worth of business annually. As a group the 1,400,000 small stores do only 23 per cent of the country's retail business . . . Al Jolson whose real name is Asa Yoelson was born in St. Petersburg (now Leningrad), Russia . . . In Beverly Hills, Cal., the law requires that all garbage be wrapped in paper before being put in the can . . . QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q—What kind of music do you like best? A—A string quartet. After that, a cafe piano player who also sings . . . Q—As to the claim that people married in church stay married longest, were you married in a church? A—Yes, Ma'am. We were married in an Episcopal church, the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City, which is more generally known as "The Little Church Around the Corner" . . . Q—To decide an argument, is there such a thing as a thoroughbred chicken? A—Only horses are referred to as thoroughbreds. All other animals with recorded pedigrees are referred to as pure breeds. There are, of course, pure bred hens. Ability to lay an unusual number of eggs is an inherited trait, so pure bred hens with good egg producing records are very valuable birds . . . Q—Does the Bible forbid the drinking of wine? A—That's a question you should ask your Sunday School teacher. However, it can be said that the Bible does not forbid the drinking of wine, but suggests that you do not drink too much of it and become drunk.

SIDELIGHTS: It was on Sept. 30, 1942, that A. Hitler told the German people: "We will soon take Stalingrad, you may depend on that" . . . An Oregon client claims a springer spaniel is not an unusually good hunting dog and wants to argue the question. Not much chance for an argument there. All the records reveal springer spaniels are wonderful hunters on land and are also good retrievers and can be of great assistance in duck hunting . . . Francis X. Bushman, who was to the silent film era what Clark Gable is to the talking picture period, tells me that he always has to smile when he hears George Bernard Shaw referred to as a vegetarian. "I can prove by witnesses," says Mr. Bushman, "that Shaw consumed not one but a number of large juicy steaks when he was traveling in Mexico."

NUMBERS: In the Scotland vs. England soccer football contest, the English team wore numbers but the Scots refused to do so. Said the spokesmen for the Scots: "Do you want to treat us like sash-corders?" What college football teams in the United States first wore identifying numbers and where was the game played? I am not asking this query as a puzzler. I would like to know. This discussion brings to mind that this department once conducted a vigorous campaign to have the chorus girls in the Ziegfeld Follies and other musical shows wear identifying numbers. Nothing ever came of it, but I still think it is a good idea.

BRIEFLY: Just before the Pearl Harbor incident, there were 174,000 men in the United States Army. Now we have 4,200,000 . . . Lord Maughan of the British Government says: "Hitler must be executed." That is what was being said about the Kaiser during World War I. After the war, the Allied Nations wanted to bring the Kaiser to trial, but Holland wouldn't give him up . . . A U. S. soldier, writing from Australia, says that where he is now there are earthworms 12 inches long, but he doesn't say how thick they are. Anyway, that is a lot of "earthworm ranch" and became "that a man in Maine had an earthworm." This brings to mind rich selling a high grade of pure bred worms for fishermen's bait.

FINDS PAN-AMERICAN CAMERA EXHIBITION IMPRESSIVE

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, MONDAY—Owing to the fact that my daughter and son-in-law, who were coming in from Seattle, Wash., by train yesterday morning to do some very urgent business here in Washington, arrived several hours late, I spent some time in the Union Station waiting for them.

I think I signed several hundred autographs in the USO lounge, and I talked about my British visit to a number of boys. I noticed one boy, with an MP band on his arm, standing around for quite a time, and I later found that he was from Albany, N. Y., and that he had worked in the Ten Eyck Hotel, so he had often seen my husband and myself when we lived in Albany.

I suppose, not being able to get home, it gave him a sense of being nearer home to talk to someone who knew his home town.

In the afternoon I went to the exhibition at the Pan-American Building of a photographic contest held in 18 American republics. I thought the photographs were particularly interesting because they showed such a good cross-section of each country that one really saw what the whole country was like.

THERE ARE SOME really beautiful photographs among them, both of scenery and of types of people. I never realized before how similar all old people become, no matter how different their types may be in middle age!

There also are some very interesting wooden carvings in a room just opposite the room in which the photographic exhibition is held. All in all, I think there is a great deal of interest to be found in the Pan-American Building. So I was glad to find a good many people there, and hope the experiment of opening it on Sunday afternoons will be successful.

I WALKED UP from there with two young girls who had just come from the deep South to work in Washington and who were seeing their first snowstorm. They both seemed very happy about their experiences and work here, which was pleasant to find. I left them at the Corcoran Art Gallery to go in to look at Elliott O'Hara's water colors, which are on sale there for the benefit of the Russian Relief Fund.

These water colors were painted in Russia in '39, before the war reached the country. They are beautiful in color, and they gave me more sense of sunshine and of the Oriental influence on Russian architecture than I previously had.

A FEW FRIENDS had supper with us last evening, and we saw a short film on visit in Great Britain, which was sent us by Mr. Brendon Bracken, the British minister of information, and then a film entitled "A Journey for Margaret," which I hope a great many people in this country may see. The spirit and feel of it is very remarkable.

Broadway's Voice - By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—I understand that at a recent drama opening at a small New York studio the management thoughtfully supplied those patrons suffering from bronchial ailments with boxes of cough drops. This strikes me as a splendid idea and one that might be adopted or even improved upon by the Broadway producers.

Gotham playgoers, especially during the winter months, include some of the greatest coughers in the world. At a recent opening of "The Russian People," for example, an unexpected theatrical effect of sustained artillery fire was created by the rasping cough that passed from patron to patron with a technique similar to that of a symphonic composer who develops a melody by giving it in turn to each instrumental section.

Cough drops may do the job, and certainly they are worth trying, but I have long felt that a more successful method would be to mount snipers in the wings with instructions to pick off the throat-clearers and coughers one by one.

The fact that, in the last week or so, this dramatic procedure would have meant my end, too, has no effect on my convictions. It's the principle of the thing.

AS ONE WHO IS FOREVER handing out accolades, encomiums and paeans of lavish praise to performers in the local theaters and niteries, I feel privileged to now and then whisper a few chiding words when needed—and I think a few are needed today. I have been storing up a few mental notes on some of my favorites, and I pass up my slight complaints in the spirit of complete kindness, the same spirit that prompts you to tell a lady "Your slip is showing."

KATHARINE CORNELL

I think I will begin on Romo Vincent, who is a jolly sort and big enough to withstand any number of brickbats. Romo, I was astonished to observe when last I visited the Rhibamba, has fallen into the distressing habit of referring to himself as "we" when he introduces his songs. "Now, if we may," says he—or should I say "they"—"we should like to sing for you one of our new numbers, which we wrote only last week, and which we hope you will like as well as we do." Or words to that effect. All the time I kept looking around for the other fellow.

Now, what I would like Romo to tell me is this: Is it the editorial "we" or the royal "we"? Perhaps, once I find out what it is that has suddenly made Romo first person plural I may get used to the idea.

THEN THERE is Miss Katharine Cornell who, like Romo, has been doing extremely well without any observations from this corner, but here is one anyway. I recently suffered an acute case of the jitters watching Miss Cornell go through an entire performance of "The Three Sisters" with the back of her wrist cemented to her brow. This is a gesture I have seen often in old photographs of Mrs. Fiske, but I was never quite sure whether it meant anguish, love, longing, or merely that she wanted an aspirin.

When Miss Cornell indulges in this old-fashioned trick it is not only dangerous (she runs the constant risk of stabbing a fellow actor in the eye with her out-thrust elbow), but it is also unkind. Anyone who looks like Miss Cornell has no call to play peek-a-boo with the audience.

And this just about brings the lesson up to the subject of Miss Carol Bruce. As one of her earliest, most enthusiastic and most consistent admirers I have no hesitancy in reporting that I wish she would not announce her own songs or make any speeches to her audience at the Plaza for any reason at all. She is a fine singer; her diction, whether she chants a ballad or a rhythm song, is perfect, and she looks divine. It is a shame to bring all this glamour down to earth by trying to be her own master of ceremonies.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Milt Herth's Trio—which helped make Jack Dempsey's restaurant a success in the spot's reincarnation after the former champ sold out—comes to the Copley Plaza's Colonial Room Thursday . . . Saturday night was featured by the brisk est sort of business in most of the Boston night clubs since the Coconut Grove blight . . . And wouldn't it be possible to tear down those huge signs carrying the Coconut Grove's name over the ruins? . . . Persons who lost dear relatives or friends in the disaster probably give the scene a wide berth, but it is unnecessary to placard a constant reminder of the tragedy over the ravaged premises, this corner thinks . . . Mickey Redstone is in New York signing acts for the Latin Quarter, where Gloria Gilbert is currently headlining a lavish show.

IS THIS TOO OPTIMISTIC? If the "El" continues to increase its business, can't the annual deficit shouldered by the cities the system serves be lessened? And the State's "end," as well? . . . Race track payments to Massachusetts will certainly go down in 1943 . . . Although the following objective is "in the works": Rockingham's meeting would be run at Suffolk Downs, Suffolk Downs to charge rent for its plant . . . (New Hampshire expects its normal share of the mutuels-take, we hear) . . . The Raynham dogtrack will house both the Dighton meeting and its own.

QUOTES: "Smart writers should build a picture these days around a title." (Martin J. Mullin, co-boss with Sadoff Pinanski, of M. & P. Theaters, talking). "An example happened right in this office . . . Eddie Grainger, the famous sales-chief of a big Hollywood outfit, was visiting . . . I said to him: 'Eddie, I've been thinking that these "Flying Tigers" of Gen. Chennault's would make a grand title' . . . Grainger got up from his chair as if he was on the business end of a catapult . . . He got his son, Jimmy, the producer, on the long distance telephone . . . In an hour, Jimmy had registered the title, and in a week a story was ready to shoot . . . The picture cost about $600,000 to make . . . It will gross at least a million and a half."

ANOTHER QUOTE . . . "I can't go home to South Carolina," (Mournfully, a boy with a limp, and wearing a private's uniform, is talking). "In my part of the country, they won't understand any talk about a fellow being out of service on a 'med' (medical discharge) . . . 'You just aren't supposed to get wounded' . . . Honestly, I'm afraid to go home . . . (As an afterthought) 'You know it's funny, down my way. Why I was 25 years old before I knew that "darnyankee" was two words' . . . This hero, incidentally, is a graduate of the famous V. M. I., a great military school whose graduates, chiefly, are commissioned officers . . . But the boy was in such a hurry to see action that he enlisted without formalities . . . That kid won't have to worry about going home."

VETERAN ACTORS FIND NEW OPPORTUNITIES IN FILMS

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 12—In the good old days of silent movies Theodore Roberts, the cigar-smoking star in his 60's, competed with the young stars for fame. Since that time there has been no man of Roberts' age to take his place. So Jack Warner feels that Sydney Greenstreet, who has great charm and ability, should be a star.

With all the younger men off to war, this is a propitious time to bring an older man into the picture. Greenstreet's first starring vehicle is "The Pentacle," a mystery thriller diller.

The public, in the past, to return to the subject of older stars, has proved its willingness to take to their hearts certain of the older people. For instance, Marie Dressler, May Robson and Edna May Oliver were all able to carry a picture and well all beloved by the fans.

WONDERFUL TO SEE Billy Gaxton so enthusiastic over his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer assignment. Billy, Victor Moore, Gregory Ratoff and Mervyn LeRoy were all having dinner together and as you can readily guess the discussion was on "Best Foot Forward," the musical comedy that brings my old friend on the MGM lot.

Billy will have the beautiful Lucille Ball as his screen partner and what more can any Broadway actor ask even as successful a one as Gaxton.

Later he and Victor Moore move to Columbia for "Tropicana." "What about the farm?" I asked. "Madeleine is closing it up and joining me here where we will be until summer or maybe longer," was the reply.

IF THE GOVERNMENT says yes, Warners will put Lieut. Ronald Reagan in one of the top spots on "This Is the Army," but it cannot be done without Uncle Sam's permission.

Ronnie is holding down two jobs and working very hard at the Roach studios where he is stationed. Jean Gabin has already offered his services free and so has Ginger Rogers. And today Lieut.-Col. Francis T. McCabe arrives to act as liaison officer between Warners and the Army, and to give technical advice.

Col. McCabe was appointed by Gen. Surles, head of the Army Public Relations, at the request of Jack Warner. That means, with Col. McCabe right on the lot, they won't have to be running to the War Department every five minutes to see what they can film and what they can't film.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Leah Rhodes, Orry Kelly's assistant at Warner studio, who took over when Orry went into the Army, was wed to Jimmy Glazer Saturday. He is a local jeweler now in the Marines; Margaret Hayes is causing chit-chat at the Stork Club with Horace Schmidlap, Broadway bankroll; Lorena Danker, wife of Danny Danker, the soap magnate, and Betty Young, wife of Robert Young, sold Lew Silvers a $50,000 war bond Saturday—a good day's work; Fritz Lang, who dropped 24 pounds, will take a rest as soon as he finishes "Unconquered."

STEEFI DUNA (Mrs. Dennis O'Keefe) gave birth to a premature son Sunday night. The baby, who weighs only four and one-half pounds, is in an incubator and the doctors say he has a fifty-fifty chance to live.

GINNY SIMMS can't seem to make up her mind. Maybe Kay Kyser could make it up for her—he's always been the one; Dudley Field Malone says all Warners studio did to make him look like Winston Churchill was add 12 individual false hairs to the top of his head. That's how much he resembles the Prime Minister; John Huston gifted his heart, Olivia De Havilland, with an airedale puppy. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

MARKETS STOCK UP ON FISH AS MEAT SCARCITY GROWS

By PAULINE WARREN

All the chain stores are ready for some heavy fish buying today, owing to the scarcity of meat. Beef and pork have practically disappeared from the market, although there is a small amount of lamb to be had.

The chains have stocked up heavily on fish. Some fresh fish is hard to get because of the shortage of fishing vessels. Two fresh fish items to be found at the chains are Northerly oysters in the shell at 29 cents a dozen and fresh Green Bay No. 1 smelts, which are just arriving on the market, at 29 cents a pound.

Frozen smelts are still only 12 cents a pound at one of the big chains. Fillets vary in price—had-dock is 23 cents a pound; cod, 29 cents; red fish, 25 cents, and mackerel, 23 cents. Frozen salmon steaks are 33 cents.

FROZEN TUNA FISH

An item new to most New England housewives is frozen tuna fish steaks at 19 cents a pound. It can be cooked much like swordfish. Swordfish varies from 49 cents to 53 cents a pound. Frozen green shrimps (in the shell) are 29 cents. One of our most famous dishes—New England clam chowder—may become extinct in New England. Two of its indispensable ingredients are scarce—salt pork, which gives it its flavor, and the clams. There are few to dig the clams these days.

Home baked beans may also get scarce due to the lack of salt pork. One chain still has it at 21 cents a pound. Strangely enough, there are still plenty of canned baked beans.

Butter is scarcer than ever. The few stores which have a little dole it out to customers in quarter pounds.

Poultry is not as plentiful as usual, owing to the tremendous run on it since red meat became scarce. And, impossible as it seems, stores are also getting low on that famous American staple—frankfurts.

There is an adequate supply of eggs and one chain is still featuring big, strictly-fresh eggs from local farms at 55 cents a dozen. Unfortunately, few of the stores have any bacon to go with them.

PLENTY OF FRUIT

The fruit situation is good. Grapefruits are plentiful and at the height of maturity—chock full of juice and of superb flavor. They sell 3 for 17 cents at one large chain for seedless, medium size. Tangerines are also plentiful and at the peak of quality. All the chains have them at around 2 dozen for 25 cents. Apples vary from 5 cents a pound to 4 pounds for 23 cents.

There is no lack of vegetables. California carrots are coming in and selling at 5c a bunch at many of the chains.

There's also plenty of broccoli at 15c a pound, green and wax beans also at 12c a pound, spinach at 10c and 12c a pound, onions at 5c a pound, turnips at 3c a pound, cauliflower at 10c a pound and some very green cabbage—just in from the South—at 7c a pound.

Henry Duffy, theatrical producer, returned to Detroit today after making arrangements to bring Edward Everett Horton, noted stage and screen comedian, to the Colonial Theater on Monday, Jan. 25, for a limited engagement in "Springtime for Henry."

Duffy is now presenting Horton in a revival of the farce-comedy in Detroit, this being the comedian's second engagement in that city in the play. Included in the cast here will be Eleanor Lawson, Marjorie Wilson and Gavin Muir.

Prices for the engagement will be popular, the top price for evening performances being $1.50, plus tax, and for the Wednesday and Saturday matinees $1, plus tax. Seats for "Springtime for Henry" go on sale Monday and mail orders are now being received.

Salvage Shift Aims to Speed Metal on Way

Acting on recommendation of the War Production Board whose representative, Raymond Hanlon, met the Somerville salvage committee at Western Junior High School yesterday, the committee replaced Harold Movitz, proprietor of the Allied Metal Co., with Edward Minichielli of Boston to prepare and transport scrap metal.

The change was effected after it was decided by the committee that Movitz was not moving the scrap metal from the city stables fast enough.

Minichielli went to work today, moving truckloads of the scrap metal out of the yard to a railway shipping point.

Minichielli was highly recommended by the WPB. Hanlon revealed that the Boston metal dealer had performed similar work for the WPB in Maine and added that he was sure the newcomer would meet with the high standards demanded by the Somerville salvage committee.

The committee includes George K. Coyne, chairman; Robert E. Wright, Robert B. Herman, Joseph S. Brennan, Alexander J. Austin and William J. Howard.

Around a Gasless Town

Things are different now... Once upon a time we laughed at a horse and wagon... Now we're glad to ride in the rig... Roundman Ronayne is singing the current hit "I Know Now"... He thought the top step in his house was where it wasn't and he found out he was wrong—too late... He tumbled 15 steps and didn't miss one... He didn't hurt himself, we're glad to say... But, brother, the stairs ain't what they use to be... We wanted to be alone last night... We went to a show... We were... If you want to go to a good whist and bridge party on a Monday afternoon, the St. Joseph's Mothers' Club has one each week... The parties are to aid the school fund... Guild House on Webster ave., near Union sq., is the scene... Six pictures of former city treasurers have been removed from that office... They will be given a cleaning and will be returned to their original positions to survey the office through which that folding stuff travels.

Any Bills Today?

Friday next—the 15th of January—is the last day on which Somerville residents may file petitions for legislation... The actual deadline is 4:15 p. m. on that day... These benign biclinal sessions, two years must elapse before petitions may be entered again... Don't miss this opportunity... Rep. Paul A. McCarthy says he will accommodate... However, he stresses the fact that petitions for legislation filed by him for Somerville residents do not necessarily reflect his views on the issues involved... The right to petition is yours... If you have a piece of legislation which you would like to see enacted, get it in now... Incidentally, the Rep. would like it generally known that he is not on the Civil Service committee of the House... This statement has been circulated around the city and is not founded on fact... Rep. McCarthy is, however, on the finance committee, the third most powerful in the House... And while we are on the subject, an accolade to Rep.-Alderman Allan Roy Kingston... Although he is a newcomer in the House, he's been named to the judiciary committee, a most powerful group... There are 13 Representatives and four Senators on this committee... Currently in the formulative stage are recommendations which would alter the district court setup in Somerville and other communities... It has been agreed by legal experts that the present district court system is not as strict or as satisfactory as it might be.

Building Total Is $741,018

The total cost of construction of new buildings and alterations to other structures in Somerville amounted to $741,018 for the year 1942, a drop of $36,000 as compared with 1941 totals.

There were 206 permits issued during the year just ended, reports in the office of Building Commissioner William J. Sullivan disclosed.

Construction of warehouses, coal pockets and lumber sheds in the city cost a total of $392,000 for the year.

A breakdown of the figures on sums expended for conversion of buildings to accommodate additional tenants showed that April led the other months with a total expenditure for alterations of $33,258.

During the entire year there were 161 buildings altered at a cost of $117,183.

Newton Days Set For Blood Donors

An appeal to all Newton residents between 18 and 60 to volunteer blood on Jan. 28 and 29 when the Red Cross blood donor center at Boston will observe "Newton days" was issued today by Mayor Paul M. Goddard.

Newton's quota for the two days is 1000 pints. The blood will be used toward Boston's goal of 3000 pints a week to save the lives of men and women in the armed services.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Copper Scrap Show Planned

In answer to the government's request for every available pound of copper scrap, the Capital Theater on Broadway, Somerville, through its manager, Jay Concannon, has completed arrangements for a Saturday morning copper scrap movie to be conducted Jan. 23 at 10 a. m.

Price of admission to the two featured pictures—Flying Fortress and Henry Aldrich, Editor—will be one pound or more of copper scrap per person. In view of the past record of metal salvage drives at the theater, Concannon stated that this newest attempt should meet with great success.

Some fear was expressed that over-eager youngsters might again raid mother's pantry for copper utensils as was the case in many homes during the aluminum drive several months ago.

The theater will expend $150 as its contribution to the drive which, in round figures, is the cost of a two-feature performance.

Money realized through sale of the copper to the government will be turned into the servicemen's fund of the Somerville Lions Club. This money will be used to give future inductees a send-off party and a useful gift when they enter the service.

FIRST—rub throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime.

THEN—spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

RIGHT AWAY, VapoRub goes to work—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—helps clear upper air passages—relieves coughing. Brings wonderful comfort.

And invites restful sleep.

24 What Kind Of Home?

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Copyright, 1943, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
World Rights Reserved

HERE'S a topic for that evening brawl across the coffee grounds. I heard it while kibbitzing in on a red hot argument between two pals. One's a contented mother of four huskies, three of them in the Army, the other's unmarried—a highly successful woman educator. The subject was ancient but always good for a nine round battle. Namely—HOW'LL WE RAISE JUNIOR?

Teacher's answer is a snort Says she—

"The very mention of an old-fashioned home makes me shudder. Thirty years ago a child had no life of his own. If the parents weren't bossing him around or squabbling with each other, his brothers and sisters were meddling in his affairs. He lived in a background of conflict."

"Then there were countless chores and annoying neighbors, each of whom felt he had the right to criticize his every act. What kind of training is that for a sensitive child?"

Mother Jones laid down her knitting and said amiably—

"Well, Amy, things being what they are, I believe it was a pretty good kind of training. Of course your plan listens fine but did you ever try to live with one of these sensitive free souls who spend most of their lives expressing themselves? Like your cousin Louise, for instance."

"But poor Louise is the result of frustration!" sighed Amy.

"Well," mused Mother Jones, "perhaps that's what we all need nowadays—a little more frustration. A little more shoving around. Take these modern youngsters—they grow up with the notion that they must be individuals. And anyone who stops them is a meanie. But self-expression isn't the greatest thing in life—it's the being able to get along with the other fellow that counts most. Even with geniuses. And no one can give you that as well as the old-fashioned home where you had to get along or get out."

SUDDENLY, Mother Jones' voice grew stern. "REMEMBER, AMY," she said, "IT WASN'T THE FREE SOULS AND SELF-EXPRESSIONISTS WHO SHOT IT OUT THROUGH BATAAN OR WHO ARE DYING FOR US NOW IN AFRICA. IT'S THE KIDS WHO LEARNED TO CO-OPERATE WHEN THEY WERE TOO LITTLE TO KNOW WHAT LAY AHEAD."

Their eyes met—they were still. But they'll be at it again another night. Which side will you be on?

Baering Down On the News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

I see that the New Deal fish is floating belly-up. But there isn't a chance of the new Congress getting our bait back.

But I sure am thankful that we are finished with the boondoggling Abracadabra. Among my souvenirs from the PWA are instructions on how to fold a beach chair.

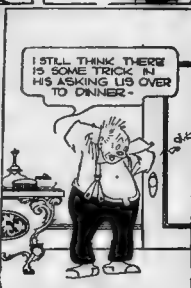

They tell me this Victory Congress will call a spade a shovel without leaning on the handle.

I don't expect complete harmony or complete disagreement between the White House and the Capitol. But I do expect Pennsylvania ave. to resume the dignity of a boulevard again. It has been a bowling alley for 10 years.

Awards of $1 each go to an East Boston woman for an unusual "lost child" story; a Boston man for a tip on an oil shortage picture; a Brookline man for a similar tip; a Sudbury man for the tip on a truck laden with 25 tons of paper overturned near Camp Edwards; a Roxbury woman for a tip a woman injured by a street car and JVA STUDY—Leaders of the "True American" Corps of the Junior Victory Army of Cambridge, who have taken a part in all salvage drives and other JVA activities, study a Navy poster. They are (l. to r.) Melvin Vinstein, Comdr. Sheld Saltman, Austin ply; Ted Goolst and Burton Swart.

JVA Members Organize Their Own Defense Corps

Spurred by a patriotic desire to contribute greater war efforts on the Home Front, more and more Junior Victory Army members are organizing their own Defense Corps and winning the rank of commanders.

Uncle Sam's chief salvage needs just now are old silk and nylon stockings, kitchen fats, tin cans, scrap metal and rubber.

By organizing their own corps, young leaders of the JVA find they can speed up their salvage jobs by house-to-house canvases.

STOCKINGS NEEDED

Castoff stockings are needed to make gun powder bags and parachutes. Fats are required to make glycerine, an important ingredient in the manufacture of ships, planes, tanks and other weapons.

Every JVA member is eligible to become a commander or hold some other rank in a defense corps. The procedure is simple.

Just write for the four-page illustrated folder. Address your letter to Adjutant, Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, and enclose a three-cent stamp loose. If you live in the Boston postal district only a two-cent stamp is necessary.

AT LEAST 6 MEMBERS

The folder contains all the information you need to organize a corps of your own.

A corps consists of at least six members, including the organizer. It can have as many members as the organizer desires.

The corps can be composed of all girls or all boys or both girls and boys. It can be formed in your own neighborhood or at school or wherever you meet most often with your friends.

Suffolk May Get Extra Days

GOV. LEVERETT SALTONSTALL is expected to grant additional days for horse racing in Massachusetts for 1943 under his emergency war powers. This would enable Suffolk Downs to conduct at least 90 days of racing in the event Narragansett Park or Rockingham Park should not operate due to the ban on the use of gas for driving to sports events.

The present racing law in Massachusetts permits 90 days of racing. Suffolk Downs has already asked for 60 days of racing while Great Barrington has applied for 30 days of racing.

A bill approved by the racing commission was recently introduced which took the limit off the number of days that could be granted for horse racing and the number of nights that could be set aside for dog racing. It is argued by persons who know their Blackstone that such legislation is unnecessary as Gov. Saltonstall has been given very broad powers under the emergency war legislation. It is believed that the Governor could grant as many extra days of racing as he saw fit.

GOV. SALTONSTALL

President Charles F. Adams of Suffolk Downs has already gone on record as stating that his track will run this year unless the war situation gets worse. The East Boston track has street car transportation which would enable the public to get to the track. It was apparent at the Bruins-Maple Leafs' hockey game in the Garden on Sunday night that the public will turn out for the right kind of an attraction. There were 14,400 persons at the hockey game. Most of the fans used the Elevated trains, street cars and steam railroad trains to get to the Garden.

Plight of Horsemen in Florida Pitiful

IF SUFFOLK DOWNS conducts a race meeting, it will be a good break for the horsemen. The average horseman with from two to 10 horses has very little money, and when racing closes down his financial condition becomes desperate. This is true today in Florida where hundreds of horsemen are in pitiful plights as a result of the lack of funds.

The horsemen have appealed to the owners of Tropical Park and Hialeah Park for aid. They were anxious to stage a co-operative meeting at Hialeah Park, but their request was turned down.

Meanwhile the Fair Grounds at New Orleans has not the stable accommodations for the average run of cheap horses. The better handicap horses will be cared for at the Fair Grounds, but most horses worth from $1000 to $1500 will be denied stall space.

The management of the Fair Grounds is not open to criticism as it has all it can do to care for the horses now on the grounds.

The condition of the horsemen will become steadily worse if Suffolk Downs, Narragansett Park and Rockingham Park are unable to operate this year. Even with the ban on the use of gas to go to sports events Suffolk Downs will be able to conduct a meeting.

Narragansett Park has already announced it will not open its spring meeting on April 10 if there is still a ban on the use of gas at that time. Rockingham Park will wait until early summer before making a decision.

It is likely that there will be reductions in the purses at the major tracks until such time as the various managements determine that higher purses are justified. Those tracks that will try to carry on will reduce every possible expense.

It is also unlikely that racing will have to contend with as much tax legislation as it has in former years. The various states will realize they will have to do everything possible to keep the sport going. Otherwise they will destroy this big revenue producer.

Love for Sports Aided Robert E. Murphy

ROBERT E. MURPHY, 22-year-old son of James P. Murphy, managing editor of the Daily Record, who is dead at his home in Belmont, retained all of his keen interest in athletics during his long illness. There were few young men who had such an expert knowledge of baseball, football, hockey, horse racing and the other sports as young Murphy. This writer had the pleasure of having been in Robert's company during trips to New England race tracks. He liked to handicap horses, and he often came up with more winners than some of the professional handicappers.

Like many other youngsters who have had the misfortune to lose their health, Robert gained much happiness following sports. We of the sports department felt keenly for Robert's mother and dad and for his two brothers and two sisters.

Bruins Meet Hawks For Red Cross Fund

By BILL GRIMES

Although they haven't recovered fully from the effects of their week-end tilts with Les Canadiens and the Maple Leafs, the Bruins will put their best foot forward tonight at the Boston Garden to halt the Chicago Blackhawks, realizing that if they accomplish their purpose they will open up a four-point gap between themselves and Toronto.

The Rossmen broke a deadlock with the Maple Leafs by setting back the Daymen Sunday night in one of the most thrilling games ever played at the Garden. They went "all out" for that game because they are well enough schooled to appreciate that a victory would insure a real turn out for tonight, when the entire receipts will be donated to the Boston Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Unlike the first game that the Rossmen played for the Red Cross, there will be no extra attractions, such as blood donations, etc. Tonight's contest will be sold strictly on its own. It will be one of the most important played by the Bruins this season.

However, instead of the usual organ recital, the crack 40-piece band of the U. S. Coast Guard will give a special program between the periods. The band will be directed by Lieut. Thomas R. Aldrich and is recognized as one of the nation's leading musical organizations.

Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, commandant of the First Naval District and Maj.-Gen. Sherman Miles, commander of the First Service Command, along with Charles F. Rowley, chairman of the local Red Cross, will speak briefly.

The Blackhawks are a real threat in the N. H. L. race. They have stood off the Rossmen in four games. On their first meeting with the Rossmen, the Hawks went away 5 to 1. Then they blew a first period two-goal lead and wound up in a 5-5 tie, after which they were set back in a wild 9 to 6 affair. In their last meeting, which was in the Windy City, they were deadlocked 4 all.

Although they are in fourth place, the Blackhawks are only four games behind the pace making Bruins. On their last time out, the Hawks came from behind to take the measure of the Detroit Red Wings.

The hockey fans have a double incentive to turn out for tonight's game. They have an opportunity to root the Rossmen in to a victory which will give Boston a four-point lead over the idle Maple Leafs and to contribute every penny they pay for their tickets to the American Red Cross, an organization which is giving it all to our boys overseas.

DEFENSEMEN Alex Skene and Harry Crovo right, of the Boston College hockey team face their busiest night of the season at the Arena tonight when they attempt to stop the rushes of the Dartmouth forwards. A win over the Green practically assures the Eagles of a perfect season for the Indians from the hills of Hanover, N. H., are tabbed the best in the East.

B. C. SEXTET PLAYS DARTMOUTH HERE

Boston College's hockey team plays Dartmouth at the Arena this evening (7:30) in the feature game of a double header (Tech vs. N. U.), and the season's finest college hockey game is in prospect when Johnny Temple's boys clash with the Green.

The Eagles were beaten only twice last season when they won the N. E. intercollegiate diadem, and Dartmouth was one of the teams to trip them. Princeton, the other, was felled by B. C. 8-2 last month to atone for the '42 defeat, and now B. C. is eager to square things with Dartmouth.

B. C. BEAT PRINCETON

But they may find it a mite more difficult because Dartmouth has a veteran sextet featuring many Greater Boston boys, and appears to be up to its usual high standard even though to date it is untested.

B. C. has two games under its belt, having defeated N. U. (11-5) as well as Princeton. Capt. Wally Boudreau and Ed Burns, in Miami with the football team at the time, missed the Princeton game but will be back tonight. They have had only one practice session since their return from the south, but Boudreau showed in the N. U. game he doesn't need much practice to reach his peak because he scored three goals in two periods that night.

DARTMOUTH TOUGHEST FOE

Temple boys have a fine chance to clean up the intercollegiate field if they get past Dartmouth because they have a high class sextet in the making. Their first wave of Jim Edgeworth, Puto Murphy and Boudreau looks as strong as Dartmouth's talented Riley-Rondeau-Harrison trio, and the game may develop into a matter of condition.

Coach Bill Lindsey's Northeastern pucksters will be gun-

HARRIDGE, FRICK PLAN MEETING

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (INS).—Will Harridge, president of the American Baseball League today announced he will go to New York early next week to confer with Ford Frick, National League prexy, on rearrangement of 1943 playing schedules.

"The new opening date of April 21 and the later closing date of Oct. 3 required almost an entirely new schedule draft," Harridge said. "Mr. Frick and I have been working on it separately since the meeting last week."

The meeting was a special session of club representatives in Chicago called by Commr. K. M. Landis to discuss problems facing the game because of war transportation difficulties.

"Inasmuch as we know the holidays and the number of Sundays each team is entitled to, we can do pretty much of the chart individually," Harridge explained. "But there are certain portions where the schedule must dovetail because of cities which have teams in each league. We've got to get together to straighten that out."

Pacino in Line For Big Bout

Larry Pacino, Roxbury middleweight star, will be signed for a major 10-round main bout against one of the leading 160-pounders in the nation, provided he wins convincingly over Manuel Rossa, New York, at Mechanics Building next Friday night.

Pacino has won 11 straight since turning professional. He's looked better in each start and, to date, no pro has pressed him. In his last start, Pacino kayaked Vic Triose and looking like a tremendous puncher in so doing. Rossa is easily the sturdiest middleweight Pacino has been called upon to date. Rossa, in his last outing, gave Al "Bummy" Davis his toughest comeback bout.

The Pacino-Rossa scrap will be one-third of the Boston B. A. features, all slated for eight rounds. In the others it will be Freddy Cabral, Cambridge, vs. Scat Robinson, Jamaica, Long Island, and Eddie Ellis Quincy, vs. the spectacular Sonny Horne, a Niles, Ohio, boy who has made good with his mitts on Broadway.

Hank Must Rest Before Operation

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12 (AP).—Henry Armstrong's pugilistic comeback campaign received a setback when his physician, Dr. A. A. Foster, said he would have to postpone the fight he had scheduled in Philadelphia and New York with Al Tribbiani and Beau Jack.

George Moore, Hammerin' Hank's manager, said surgeons were unable to perform an immediate tonsillectomy on the Negro lightweight and that Armstrong would be required to rest from two to three weeks after the operation.

If Baseball Builds Morale, It Needs No Apology

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP).—Baseball's only reason for continued existence is morale, and if it is serving a useful function in this way then no apology is needed, says Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Ruffled by recent contentions from some critics that baseball has not fitted itself into the war program, the veteran major league executive told reporters:

"Baseball either should be, or it shouldn't be. And if it should be, then it doesn't have to be shamed or apologetic about the way it is conducting itself.

"The only reason for its continued existence is for morale. That is an overworked term, but I don't

YANKEES TO TRAIN AT ASBURY PARK, N. J.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP).—The New York Yankees announced that they would train this spring at Asbury Park, N. J., 65 miles from New York.

Selection of the site followed a personal inspection Saturday by Manager Joe McCarthy and Chief Scout Paul Krichell, both of whom praised the advantages of the location.

The American League champions will use the high school athletic field, which is seven blocks from the Albion Hotel, where the players will be quartered.

Krichell said the playing field was very deep in center with the left field foul line extending about 325 feet from home plate and the right field line running about 350. A cinder track and concrete stands, seating 720 persons, surround the diamond.

An adjacent gymnasium will be available for calisthenics and for warming up pitchers on bad days. The Yankees were told the temperature there generally is 10 degrees warmer than in New York.

New York's other two major league clubs, the Giants and Dodgers, have not yet reached a decision on training sites. The Giants are expected to land at Lakewood, N. J., and will receive a delegation from there today to discuss laying out a practice diamond either on a polo field or golf course. The Dodgers are awaiting word on whether, or not Yale University will be available to them.

Senators Plan Home Training

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 12 (AP).—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators of the American League, said the Nats would train at home this spring.

Griffith said the players would use some diamond in Washington other than their home field at Griffith Stadium, which will not be in shape due to the returfing after the football season.

Griffith was in Richmond for the Piedmont league meeting. He represented the Charlotte, N. C., franchise, which the Senators operate.

Westy Out to Avenge Early Loss to Robert

Marvin Westenberg, former champion, will be out to raise his standing a few notches when he tackles Yvon Robert, Canadian champion, in a return match at the weekly wrestling show at the Arena tomorrow night.

In their first match, the referee awarded Robert the rubber fall when he disqualified Westenberg for using unfair tactics.

In the special bout of the night, Dr. John "Dropkick" Murphy will try to end Jack Cistoldi's winning streak.

The rest of the card will read, Leo Numa vs. Slidin' Bill Hansen; Jack Marshall vs. Rebel Bob Russell and Fred Bruno vs. Gus Johnson.

A schedule of 154 games calls for no more travel than a 140 games because in either case each club must make three trips into every other city in the league.

"I've seen where some people think it would have been a good gesture for us to have cut our schedule to 140 games. We're not in the field of gestures. We're in the field of action. We've taken the action that is practical."

Orange Bowl Sends 29 B. C. Silver Footballs

By HERB FINNEGAN

B. C.'s embattled gridiron warriors might have been away from home over Christmas but every day has been Christmas to them since they returned from the Orange Bowl. They were greeted like conquering heroes on their homecoming despite their 11 p. m. arrival. Next, they were flattered with the 750 turnout at the Varsity Club dinner where they were awarded letters and where Comdr. Tom Hamilton presented each with his patented "football" game, a highly scientific gadget. And today they were pleasantly surprised when they learned that silver footballs for all who made the trip to Miami were being rushed air mail by the Orange Bowl committee. (Had they won the souvenirs would have been gold.) While they were talking about the silver footballs Eddie Doherty was no whit startled to receive a two-foot trophy "for a grand fellow and a grand quarterback," a gift of his many admirers in Lawrence, where Eddie played semi-pro football before entering Boston College.

Having tried every trick in the book in an effort to get under 200 pounds so that he might become a naval flier, "Give-it-to-Mike" Holovak will try to worry off the extra poundage in the "rubber chicken" league. B.C.'s popular captain will be co-guest of honor with HC's Johnny Grigas (of all people) at Chelsea High, Jan. 21. Grigas is a Chelsea High graduate. On Jan. 27, Mike and Joe Repko, along with Denny Myers, will be feted in their home town of Landsford, Pa. While in the vicinity Mike and company will be asked to attend a banquet in honor of the undefeated Shenandoah, Pa., high school team.

While on the subject of Holovak, that contribution of Gerry Coughlin, '23, is worth repeating. It was sung with great gusto at the Varsity Club dinner to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland." The words:

"Who's now the Eagles' proudest boast? Holovak, Mike Holovak! His fame has spread from Coast to Coast—Holovak, Mike Holovak. He blasts a line like T-N-T, and fills the Fenway fans with glee. No better ever wore the 'B.' than Holovak, Mike Holovak."

"Opponents fear his smashing charge, Holovak, Mike Holovak. He hits like an invasion barge, Holovak, Mike Holovak. And when he joins a Navy crew, won't Hitler's gang be feeling blue? For who will keep on crashing through? Holovak, Mike Holovak."

Mr. Coughlin, head of the English High School, dashes them off in 10 minutes. He's been doing it far years, for the Baseball Writers, for the Clover Club, etc. Here's another the B. C. alumni liked. It is entitled "Two too many and is sung to the tune of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Our Irish eyes were smiling when our scores were mounting high; there was lilt of Irish laughter as each Saturday went by. Still would Irish eyes be happy, and our skies would still be blue. If we'd only closed the season on the day that we played B. U.

COAST GUARD NEXT FOR PICS

The rejuvenated Boston Olympics face stern opposition at the Garden on the coming week-end when they face the Coast Guard Cutters from Curtis Bay, Maryland, on Friday evening and Sunday afternoon.

On Sunday afternoon the employees of the Nichols and Sons Machine Co. of Waltham will turn out in strength to cheer for Eddie Barry and Hec Rousseau. Both boys will be presented with appropriate gifts. Barry, former Olympic winger now playing for the Coast Guard, is a former employee of the Nichols Co., while Rousseau is working there now.

COUNCIL APPROVES PAY RAISE OF $100 TO POLICE, FIREMEN

of the stability of the city, and lastly from the viewpoint of the men of these two departments who don't always come out with things best for themselves."

The council reviewed the failure of two previous ordinances raising police and fire department increases, adding: "And if this $200 increase passes, there can be court action again by simply the protesting signatures of ten tax payers."

ASKED FOR $500

Councilor Francis L. Sennott disagreed with Councilor Hogan, stating that he didn't see "anything satisfactory about this amendment." Sennott stated that the original requests this year by police and firemen were for $300 increases, their last request for $200 having been denied. He said: "Six members of this council originally voted for a $200 increase this year and two members opposed it. Other city employees have received pay raises, some since last July, but police and fire received nothing. I will not vote in favor of this amended ordinance."

Councilor Thomas M. McNamara declared he would vote against the amendment, stating that he had agreed to vote on the $200 compromise. He added:

"The only question involved here is $43,000, and if the city isn't able to carry this load it is in a rather precarious position. This increase doesn't amount to 25 cents on the tax rate and will not be a load on the small taxpayer."

SINCE JANUARY

"If the manager had carried out the wishes of this council the police and firemen would have been getting $200 increase since last January. If I was one of the six members of this council who voted to put the manager into this $15,000-a-year position, I would have voted to remove him when he ignored my request and the request of this council. He deliberately snubbed members who voted him into the $15,000-a-year job."

"So far as opposition arising from other municipal employees, should this $200 increase go through, I discount that. In the street department, the salary committee has only seven or eight protests from employees, all of which can be straightened out very easily. With another increment due, most city employees have gone beyond the 10 per cent increase."

Councilor Edward Crane, just advanced to sergeant technician in the Army, was present to vote on the pay increases, his first meeting with the council since he joined the Army.

He expressed approval of the ordinance as amended, declaring that should it be ordained, police and firemen would be the best paid employees in Massachusetts.

"I believe that the goal isn't far away when all city employees in Cambridge will be the best paid in the State. I think that this is in line with making city employees the best paid in the Commonwealth," he added.

CITES SOMERVILLE

Councilor Sennott again took the floor to state that he had information that the acting mayor of Somerville planned to seek a 10 per cent increase for Somerville police and firemen, and that he understood that Boston and other surrounding cities and towns were planning to grant similar increases.

The amended ordinance was passed, however, by a 5 to 3 roll call vote, with Mayor Corcoran and Councilors Hogan, Morton, Pill and Crane voting in favor, Councilors Lynch, McNamara and Sennott opposed. Councilor Michael A. Sullivan, reported ill at his home, was recorded as absent. Reconsideration failed by a 7 to 1 vote, Councilor Lynch still expressing his dislike for the amended ordinance.

Mayor Corcoran then offered a similar amendment for the police department, a $100 increase this year with an additional $100 next year.

Councilor and former Mayor John D. Lynch was on the floor immediately, loudly protesting.

THREE VOTES

"I voted three times in favor of $200 pay raises for fire and police. I did not speak in opposition to the amendment on the fire ordinance because I felt we had the necessary votes for passage of the original $200 increase. I felt that way because of the conference we had as a committee on finance at which enough members of this council agreed to compromise with the police and fire and grant a $200 increase."

"I believe in keeping my word and I had assumed that other members of this council kept their word. I believe also in keeping tax rates down, but not this way. I voted in my own administration that I believed in lowering tax rates—I did it, but not at the expense of poor working people."

"Gentlemen, this $200 annual increase that these police and firemen have agreed upon is only $40,000. That amount can be saved easily without doing it at their expense. It can be saved right here in this council chamber."

"You have a city manager who is getting the large salary of $15,000 a year. That salary should be, at the very highest, $7,500—and that's putting it high. Then, gentlemen, we pay ourselves $4000 a year for one meeting a week when we should really only receive $500 a year. Cut these salaries, not the police or fire, and you'll be doing something and making up for this extra hundred these men deserve."

"GREATEST MISTAKE"

"We have just made the greatest mistake in the world by holding up $100 for one year on these men—the year when prices are at their highest, cost of living is at its peak. I don't know how people making $30 or $40 today can exist with the high cost of living."

"We can afford to give these men this $200. We have no welfare, no WPA, no snowstorms to speak of, and no street construction. I'm sorry I didn't speak before in opposition to the fire amendment, but I had no way of knowing that certain councilors here were going to break their agreement. I can see the hand that changed the votes. I do think this council should treat city employees right. I hope that they will change the ordinance on the firemen as amended at the next meeting, and that this council will disapprove this police amendment."

Rollcall vote on the amended police ordinance was passed 5-3, with the council voting in the same order as on the fire amendment. Lynch once again voted for reconsideration.

whereby five representatives of the organization shall attend the Cambridge United War Fund dinner on Wednesday evening, Jan. 20, at the Hotel Continental.

The C. L. U. took a stand opposing the proposed sale of two Boston Elevated power stations to the Boston Edison Co.

Another C. L. U. committee was appointed to wait on the chief of the fire department to request that hereafter only members of the Fire Fighters' Union be assigned to paid details at local union functions where it is necessary to have a fireman on duty.

Feature of the evening was the presentation of the United War Fund film, explaining in detail exactly how money donated to the fund is spent.

A resolution was unanimously adopted whereby the Central Labor Union pledged its wholehearted support in the 1943 drive of the Greater Boston United War Fund and urged its affiliated labor organizations to contribute an amount equal to at least one hour's pay a month.

Next meeting of the C. L. U. will be held in Cypress Hall on Jan. 25, with members of the Senate and House of Representatives as guests. Members have been invited to bring their friends to this meeting.

Two Breaks Under Probe

Cambridge police discovered breaks in two local stores early today.

They found the door of the Harvard Square Bowldrome, at 22 Dunster st., open shortly after 4 o'clock. Investigation revealed that three machines had been broken into and the contents taken. They also found the glass in the stockroom door broken.

About two hours later police discovered that the staple and padlock of the front door of the Central Coffee Shop, 782 Main st., had been ripped off and the store entered.

Both the cigarette and music machines were forced open and the contents taken. Police notified the owner, Charles Baker, 56 Clearwater rd., Brookline. He was not able to determine immediately whether anything else was missing.

Municipal Oil Center Sought

gallons. With 20 tanks with 3000-gallon capacities, we could store 60,000 gallons of oil if necessary in this city.

"For the past four or six weeks we have been treated to the spectacle of seeing people loaded down with oil cans walking four and five miles for oil. And as usual, it's the poor who have to suffer like this."

"Many of these families have boys in the armed services who are fighting for the American way of life and the American way of life is to enjoy such comforts as warmth."

"Those of us who have the slightest smattering of what is going on realize that we are being represented by a lot of dodos in Washington, who are allowing themselves to be trimmed."

"The simple answer is that we should have pressure pumps bring our oil to us here, but that's too expensive. For the past 10 years our representatives in Washington have forgotten that Massachusetts is on the map."

"Maine proudly boasts that they are not having any oil difficulty—they say they have plenty of oil. Well, if Maine can do it, we can."

Councilor McNamara, declaring that Police Station 3 in East Cambridge had been ordered padlocked, asked that his order calling for removal of the city manager be taken from the committee on ordinances.

A vote on suspension of the rules failed, however, with Councilor McNamara voting alone in favor.

The council, approved an order introduced by Councilor Hyman Pill calling upon the city manager to request coal dealers to deliver half-ton loads of coal to Cambridge residents.

Pill told the council that he had received several complaints from residents, financially unable to pay for large orders of coal, that coal dealers were refusing to make half-ton deliveries.

"I think this is very unfair and I believe that the manager should contact these dealers and ask them to consider the less fortunate people and make half ton deliveries," he said.
